'Hair Down' At Geneva?

On the telephone a ranking senator in matters of foreign affairs said:

"It is difficult, especially for the naturally optimistic and ebullient American, to keep in mind that from the moment of decision to attend, nothing substantive was expected to be agreed to at Geneva, nor any formal major commitments made.

"It certainly was not to be anticipated the Russians, for example, would surrender the manpower and industrial skills of East Germany in a brief meeting at Geneva. They know, too, that their section of Germany is the bread basket of that nation. Without it Chancellor Adenaur's government cannot live save by vast, costly imports of food, especially grain. Yet, East Germany is not all asset. Its riots, its proximity to the freer peoples and the higher living standard of the West are factors which make it something of a liability."

Before the hydrogen and atomic weapons came to dominate military planning, East Germany was an ideal jumping-off place for a "blitzkreig" invasion of France and Europe.

Values

Today, it is still of great value. But, military strategists are in agreement that the days of massed invasions with armored divisions and assault troops are ended. So, East Germany is not as valuable a piece of tactical real estate as it was 10 years ago.

The Russians, with a strong hand, never expected to reach any agreement about united Germany at Geneva . . . and neither did the United States, Great Britain or France. It was necessary to make the union of Germany the first item on the agenda so that it may be projected into future meetings.

The Germans countered the pleas to unite Germany and "free" the satellites by demanding an end to NATO. The Western nations then began to picture NATO not as a force to block Russian aggression, which was why it originally was formed, but as an international police organization to keep the peace in Europe.

The senator declared the real purpose was to construct a bridge between the two world factions which would make future discussions possible. They may lead to solutions. They certainly will ease tensions.

"Note that about 1,000 correspondents and more observers were permitted at Geneva," he said. "Had the Russians anticipated any really conclusive meetings they would never have agreed to attend in such an open, free-and-easy manner. As it is, dinners are being given, each delegation is vying to be the most friendly group present, and the Soviet delegates, emerging from the mystery of their iron curtain, are acting like candidates for office.

"Hair Down"

"Perhaps the most valuable end result to emerge from Geneva," the senator continued, "will be a sort of by-product. There have been a number of quiet, informal, get-togethers. It is in this sort of meetings that men get to know each other's minds—as they cannot in the major gatherings in the Palais Des Nations. The meetings between Eisenhower and Zhukov; between Eden and the Russians; between the French and the Russians—these are very valuable and here each side can, as the Americans say, "let down their hair."

Nations, like individuals, learn by trial and error. One lesson learned from the meetings at Yalta and Postdam was not to try and settle major issues in a prolonged "at the summit" meeting. At Yalta there was the pressure of the war and the American wish to avoid great casualties in an assault on Japan. The British, in their wartime meetings in Moscow, also had the every-day pressure of winning the war breathing on their necks. At Potsdam there was the pressure of "reaching decisions" without a second meeting.

Veteran State Department men advised against this at Geneva—and the President himself was from the first of like mind. That is why he insisted on a relatively brief span of time at Geneva. The big idea was to get the ball rolling.

Lad in Raging Creek Saved As Rains, Hail Flail City

An Atlantan was credited with saving a 12-year-old boy from drowning in a flooded creek Wednesday as a severe thunderstorm battered the Atlanta area.

Sheets of rain, accompanied by hailstones in downtown Atlanta, slowed traffic to a creep and stalled dozens of cars. The flash floods brought an outbreak of automobile crashes, injuring five persons.

And the weatherman warned that thundershowers may strike again Thursday.

IN PROCTOR CREEK

Clarence R. Wallace of 720 Florence Pl., NW, rescued David Smith, son of Mrs. Margaret Smith of 714 Florence Rd., NW, from rain-swollen Proctor Creek near the Grove Park Recreation Center, witnesses said.

Young Smith was being swept along by the swift current and "had gone under two times" when the maintenance foreman reached him and pulled him to safety.

Smith B. West of 1 Florence Pl., NW, who holds the Carnegie Medal for heroism, said he will recommend Wallace for the medal. "He certainly deserves it if anyone does," West said.

SWEPT DOWNSTREAM

The youngster was playing in the flood waters with two other boys, Jack and Ronnie Sarratt, and moved into the swift part of the stream without realizing it. The Sarratts were able to swim to shore, but David was swept downstream.

Wallace, who had driven to the area to observe the flood waters, saw David in distress. Jumping from his auto and kicking off his shoes, he went after the youngster.

The current hampered Wallace's efforts to get David to shore. However, when he neared land, a boy identified as Gary Williams swam to him and took David from Wallace's back. Another youth, Emory B. Smith, threw a rope to Wallace.

Mrs. James West of 718 Florence Pl., NW, who witnessed the drama, said Wallace "deserves the main credit for saving the boy" although others assisted.

Several cars were stalled on Stewart avenue, SW, when low places became flooded. Walker Super Market, 1112 Stewart Ave., SW, was one of several businesses flooded.

Youth Charged With Stabbing DeKalb Tutor

A DeKalb mother of three was stabbed Wednesday by a 12-year-old youth she was tutoring privately in remedial reading, DeKalb County police said.

The woman, Mrs. George Robinson of 2396 Westminster Way, NE, was treated about noon at Emory Hospital for a wound inflicted by a small knife in the back of her right shoulder. Doctors said she was not seriously injured.

Mrs. Robinson

The youth, who police said admitted the stabbing, was turned over to juvenile authorities. (Names of juveniles under the age of 17 are witheld in accordance with Georgia juvenile court law.)

The soft-spoken tutor, interviewed later at her home, expressed concern for the youth. She said he was a "good boy" with "emotional problems."

Atlanta Faces 2 Musts In Securing Slum Aid

By ALBERT RILEY

The City of Atlanta, having launched a study of slum clearance and urban redevelopment possibilities, must do two things to qualify for federal assistance in such a program.

1. A "workable program" must be developed before U.S. funds will be granted. It must be a long range, community plan affecting all blighted areas.

2. A redevelopment agency will have to be appointed to carry out the specific renewal project or projects.

According to Bruce Wedge, regional director of Urban Renewal for the Housing and Home Finance Agency, it make no great difference which step is begun first. But both steps must be taken.

When the city has met all federal requirements and its application for funds has been approved, the federal government will pay two-thirds of the net project cost of urban renewal projects.

"Urban Renewal" is an all-inclusive term used in the Federal Housing Act of 1954, covering not only slum clearance but also rehabilitation and neighborhood conservation.

Under this program, municipalities or housing authorities may, within the provisions of state laws, acquire blighted areas, improve the sites and sell the land to private enterprise for development.

But to qualify for federal aid, the municipality, through its designated agency, must develop a "workable program" 'to eliminate slums and prevent the spread of future blight.

The "workable program" must include these essential items:

1. CODES AND ORDINANCES. These must be sufficient to assure adequate minimum standards of health, sanitation and safety under which dwellings may be law-

House Votes $1 an Hour; IkeDime Off

For New Pay Floor To Up 2.1 Million

New York Times News Service Special to The Atlanta Constitution

WASHINGTON, July 20—The House approved today an increase in the national legal minimum wage from 75 cents to $1 an hour. The vote was 362-54.

President Eisenhower had recommended a rise to 90 cents. He received a second rebuff when the House voted down, 173-168, an attempt to start the increase at 90 cents an hour in 1956 and raise it to $1 in 1957.

The measure now goes to conference with the Senate. The Senate voted last month for the $1 minimum wage but differences remain as to when it would become effective. The House set the date at March 1, 1956, to permit business adjustment. The Senate wants the date Jan. 1.

$1.10 VOTED DOWN

Before its final vote the House rejected the 90-cent plan by a vote of 188-145. Rep. Roy W. Wier, (D-Minn.), tried to put the increase at $1.10 an hour. He lost by a vote of 198-93.

There was no White House indication as to whether the President would accept or veto the Senate and House decisions that were 10 cents an hour above his recommendation. No veto was expected as of tonight.

However, administration spokesmen in the House raised the question of possible new inflationary spirals through a lack of moderation in the increases. They also held that small business could not absorb a rise to $1 and that unemployment would result.

SOUTHERN STAND

Southern Democrats helped strongly to try to preserve the administration's call for a rise to 90 cents, but Republicans drifted from the administration fold in favor of the higher level.

The final vote was: For the bill: Democrats, 192; Republicans, 170; Against the measure: Democrats, 29; Republicans, 25.

Debate indicated that Department of Labor estimates put wage rises totaling $560,000,000, spread among 2,100,000 workers. The effect would be strongest in the South.

Tallapoosa Status 'Not Really Bad'

By BERT SPENCER
Constitution Staff Writer

TALLAPOOSA, July 20—A Harlalson County grand jury foreman said today his group thus far has found no evidence of "really bad" conditions here, but that the jury might recommend stricter enforcement of some city laws.

The jury heard from Tallapoosa's mayor and three councilmen today in an investigation of charges by two former councilmen that "hoodlums" were trying to run the town.

The two councilmen, who said they and three policemen resigned over the weekend because of threats, will be heard when the grand jury reconvenes Monday, Foreman W. I. Pope said.

Pope, a rural mail carrier here, said that, although the investigation was not complete, he felt the alleged conditions of "hoodlumism" in this west Georgia border town do not exist.

He said unsworn statements by the city officials indicated that threats against the former councilmen and police had been made

Foreign Ministers Asked To Bridge Gap on Germany

Let's All Go to Russia, Fellows, Khrushchev Croons It's Different

GENEVA, July 20 (AP)—Nikita S. Khrushchev, boss of Russia's Communist party, invited Nelson A. Rockefeller today to visit the Soviet Union.

Khrushchev

McCardle, an assistant secretary of state, replied, "but I've been to Russia."

"It doesn't make any difference," said Khrushchev. "Let's all go. Things are different now."

The conversation took place at a luncheon given by the Russians for British Prime Minister Eden. Rockefeller, who is in charge of the U. S. atoms-for-peace program, arrived here only today.

Hand Urges Full Probe Of Whitman Business Ties

By The Associated Press

Former House Speaker Fred Hand Wednesday urged a full-scale investigation of School Building Authority Chairman George P. Whitman Jr.'s connections with private business firms.

Hand charged that Whitman maintained a private business telephone in the authority's office.

He said the telephone was that of Phillips Sales Co., which has sold the state millions of dollars worth of insurance.

The former House speaker, who was Whitman's predecessor as chairman of the authority, said it is "ridiculous for Mr. Whitman to say he has never used any of his state offices to further his well being."

Whitman told the authority as he was reelected chairman Tuesday that he never has and never will use his state offices to further his private business interests.

"I have no comment on any charges Mr. Hand might make," Whitman said, asserting that he did not want to dignify such charges.

"I welcome an investigation by Mr. Hand or anyone else into my activities as chairman of the State School Building Authority," he added.

But Whitman Wednesday acknowledged connection with the Phillips concern. He did so even as J. A. Kane, listed as president of Phillips, first denied that Whitman was connected with the firm and then stated he had "no comment" on the matter.

(Whitman told The Atlanta Constitution that he is an agent of the Phillips Co. And he said he did get the ports authority business, is glad of it and wished it could have been more.

("I have done nothing illegal," he declared.

Phillips, according to Fulton County records, was incorporated on Feb. 16, 1954. The firm, which has a College Park drugstore location as its business address, handles most of the insurance for the State Ports Authority, said J. E. Homer Kerr Jr., authority comptroller.

Kerr estimated the authority's total insurance as about $11,500,000, of which he said Phillips has the major share. Kerr said he knew Whitman as agent for Phillips.

(Pointing out that he does have a portion of the state insurance business awarded him by the ports authority, Whitman said he is a licensed insurance agent.

(The state insurance commissioner's office lists Whitman as a licensed agent for three companies—the Maryland Casualty Co., Standard National Insurance Co. and Eagle Star Co.)

State Purchasing Agent C. Lawton Shaw said he understands Phillips and Park Supply Co. have the same ownership. Park has sold the state almost $50,000 worth of supplies since the first of the year and Phillips has sold

Ike Suggests Drafting of New Parley

By HAROLD CALLENDER
New York Times News Service Special to The Atlanta Constitution

GENEVA, July 20 — Four baffled chiefs of government handed over to their foreign ministers today the task of bridging apparently irreconcilable differences between the Soviet Union and the West.

These differences were accentuated by a new Soviet proposal for a collective security treaty for Europe. It was only a slight modification of that submitted to the Berlin four-power conference 18 months ago and rejected by the West. It contrasted with two Western proposals made here in that it entailed an indefinitely divided Germany which the Western leaders consider a handicap to security.

In these unauspicious circumstances President Eisenhower said the time had come to ask whether the heads of government of the United States, Britain, France and the Soviet Union should not consider a conference to discuss in detail the two broad questions of the unification of Germany and European security.

The result was that the four ranking leaders agreed to ask their foreign ministers to begin tomorrow morning to frame a directive for such a conference for submission to the chiefs of government later this week. It will be a draft of the instructions that the foreign ministers, who will comprise the proposed conference, will receive from their chiefs, the heads of government.

It thus appeared likely that the meeting "at the summit" would finish Friday or Saturday by a decision to authorize the foreign ministers of the four powers to

$6 Million Paint Factory Near For DeKalb, DuPont Indicates

The E. I. duPont de Nemours Co. is expected to announce Thursday that it will construct a $6,000,000 paint factory at the Tucker community in DeKalb County.

DeKalb Commissioner Wheat Williams said Wednesday that the company was expected to make the formal announcement "at any time."

Company officials would only say they would make "an announcement" at a luncheon meeting Thursday.

The duPont firm owns a 60-acre tract in Tucker which it purchased about 10 years ago from Williams' real estate company. It has been considering a plant on the site, the commissioner said, and recently has finished analyzing county reports on such factors as water supply and fire protection.

Williams declared that a "certain high state official" had been trying to persuade duPont to locate in Clayton County, but that the company evidently decided against this proposal.

The factory will probably employ about 200 persons, the commissioner said. It will manufacture paint, shellac and related products.

They broke into a mail car, disarmed and tied mail clerk Thomas E. Mason, of Buffalo, N.Y., and escaped with one or two pouches, police said.

What was in the pouches was not known immediately.

One report spoke of a large sum of money. A later one said the pouch or pouches contained only canceled checks.

The train, carrying mail and freight, was moving out of the New York Central's express depot on the west side of Manhattan, in an open cut, when the bandits revealed themselves to Mason.

Mason's cries for help were not heard until the train had moved another 20 blocks.

Then towerman Kenneth O'Dell telephoned ahead to the next tower that something was wrong.

The bandits, meanwhile, had vanished into the night.

The robbery took place not on the New York Central's main tracks but on a West Side route that serves freight sidings along the Hudson River waterfront.

The clerk told police the train was moving slowly past 38th street before he was aware of the bandits' presence. Both displayed guns he said. That would be about five blocks from the terminal from which the train pulled out.

The robbery threw the freight terminal into a frenzy.

City and railroad police swarmed about. The FBI was making inquiries.

The railroad said the train's cargo was destined for Northeast, Midwest and West Coast points.

The freight route generally follows the Hudson River shore on the West Side of Manhattan. From the 33rd street freight station at 12th avenue, the line runs in an open cut north to 71st street. There it goes into an underground tube near the start of Riverside drive.

It continues north along the river, emerging into the open again, and leaves the island by a bridge at the extreme northern tip, where the Harlem River flows into the Hudson.

House-Senate Panel Okays Reserve Bill

Present, Past Servicemen Exempted in Compromise

WASHINGTON, July 20 (AP)—A military reserve bill that would exempt present and former servicemen from active reserve training was reported agreed upon today by a Senate-House conference committee.

As described by members of the committee, it would require training in the reserves for all men who entered the services once the bill became law.

The bare fact that a tentative agreement had been reached was announced by Sen. Russell (D-Ga) and Rep. Vinson (D-Ga), chairmen of the Senate and House Armed Services Committees and leaders of the Conference Committee.

Other conferees supplied some details. The Conference Committee is to meet again tomorrow to sign a legislative draft.

As outlined, the bill is a compromise between Senate and House versions that in themselves were far less stringent than the Pentagon wanted in its announced plans to build the reserves from the present 700,000-800,000 men to a force of 2,900,000 by 1960.

However, President Eisenhower seemed likely to get shortly, at least in this limited form, legislation he has put near the top of his "must" list. He has called urgently for a stronger reserve system than the present one, which is largely volunteer.

The House and Senate, and then the President, would have to pass on the final form of the bill that emerges from the Conference Committee.

Both branches have agreed on one new feature, although without all details asked by the Pentagon. This provides for accepting young men for three to six months of active service, to be followed by enough active reserve training to cover a combined period of eight years.

The Pentagon wanted all other men to serve a total of eight years on active duty and in the reserves, but the House cut this to six years and one conferee said the House version was accepted.

Sen. Russell's plan for a cash bonus to induce prior servicemen to enlist for three years in the active reserve—as contrasted with the Pentagon plan to require them to service without such a bonus—was reported dropped in the Senate-House conference.

Committee Eyes Letters Of Talbott

By W. H. LAWRENCE
New York Times News Service
Special to The Atlanta Constitution

WASHINGTON, July 20—Senate investigators have correspondence and documents purporting to show that Harold E. Talbott actively promoted from his Pentagon office new business for a New York industrial engineering firm.

The secretary of the Air Force has continued to share in the firm's profits while in office.

A series of letters to industrialists—many of them written by Talbott on Air Force stationery—were circulated this afternoon to members of the Senate permanent investigations subcommittee. They bore a "confidential" stamp.

Talbott already has denied to the subcommittee that there was anything illegal or unethical about his acknowledged continuing association in Paul B. Mulligan & Co., a New York firm, which specialized in clerical efficiency studies.

Before he was confirmed in January, 1953, Talbott advised the Senate Armed Services Committee that he would remain a "special partner" in the Mulligan firm. But he said he would otherwise several all business connections.

The subcommittee is awaiting further communications from Talbott before deciding whether to hold public hearings on the case. The subcommittee, a branch of the Senate Government Operations Committee, is headed by Sen. McClellan (D-Ark).

At issue is the question of whether Talbott may have violated the spirit or letter of the "conflict in interests" laws.

What Did Ike, Zhukov Talk of, Eat?

GENEVA, July 20 (AP) — Soviet Marshal Georgi Zhukov left his fellow delegates behind today and went to a private lunch at President Eisenhower's villa. They talked for two hours with only interpreters listening in.

The meeting of the two wartime associates was so hush-hush that even the menu was withheld by Eisenhower's aides. It came less than 24 hours after the President had appealed to Zhukov, at the Big Four sessions, to back him in dealing with the questions of Germany and NATO.

Eisenhower aides said the President invited Zhukov to lunch a couple of days ago and that the marshal accepted the invitation this morning.

The President and Zhukov had chatted briefly two or three times since they arrived here last weekend. One occasion was at a dinner Eisenhower gave for the entire Russian delegation Monday. But not until today did the two have a chance to talk at length. Their interpreters were Charles E. Bohlen, U. S. ambassador to Moscow, and Oleg Troyanovski, who accompanied Zhukov.

The fact the marshal went to the private conference implied the permission of Premier Bulganin and perhaps Communist party boss Nikita Khrushchev.

There was not the slightest trace of a security escort when Zhukov's chauffeur drove him and the interpreter into the villa grounds.

U.S. Envoy Rescues Perle Mesta As Rioters Sack 2 Saigon Hotels

SAIGON, South Viet Nam, July 20 (AP) — A rioting mob burst out of a peaceful anti-Communist student demonstration today and sacked two Saigon hotels housing foreigners.

Mrs. Perle Mesta, former U. S. minister to Luxembourg who was ending a two-day visit to Saigon, was trapped in her suite but convinced a group of rioters she should not be molested. She was rescued after nearly two hours by U. S. Embassy aides.

Twenty-eight Americans, including officers of the military aid mission to Indochina lost all their possessions.

Fifty demonstrators, eight Vietnamese policemen, a French gendarme and the wife of one hotel's manager were injured. Official reports said no one was killed.

The riot began as a demonstration against the Indian-Polish-Canadian Indochina Armistice Commission. Ringleaders shouted it is favoring the Communist Vietminh regime in North Viet Nam.

Mrs. Mesta was in her second-floor suite with two secretaries, Mrs. Jean Anderson of Washington and Mrs. Lester B. Pridgen of New York City, when rioters tried to push in.

Mrs. Mesta locked the door. The rioters attacked it with axes. She threw open the door and shouted:

"No! We are your friends. We are Americans!"

A student who understood English organized a cordon and beat back the other demonstrators. An hour and a half later, U. S. Embassy representatives made their way in and escorted the Mesta party to cars. They managed to get out 17 pieces of luggage, losing only a portable typewriter.

White House Cited Funds In Delay on Dixon-Yates

WASHINGTON, July 20 (AP)—Democratic senators trying to penetrate what they call a "cover-up" on Dixon-Yates today brought out new details on how the White House intervened in the fight over the now dead private power contract.

After more than a week of trying, they got Chairman J. Sinclair Armstrong of the Securities and Exchange Commission to testify that presidential assistant Sherman Adams mentioned an appropriation bill then pending in the House when he asked postponement of an SEC hearing on the Dixon-Yates contract.

The contention of Sen. Kefauver (D-Tenn) and others is that the SEC hearing was postponed for fear it would produce testimony which would block House passage of the 6½-million-dollar appropriation for a transmission line for Dixon-Yates power.

They indicate the SEC hearing would have explored the question of the "two hats" worn by Adolphe H. Wenzell, financier and foe of TVA public power. Wenzell was an unpaid consultant to the Budget Bureau on power matters at the same time he was a vice president of the First Boston Co., which eventually became the fiscal agent for Dixon-Yates.

Last week Armstrong balked at giving details of his telephone conversation with Adams, President Eisenhower's right hand man, about postponement of the SEC hearing.

But today Armstrong told a Senate Antimonopoly subcommittee that Adams said, "We're considering whether we need that (Dixon-Yates) plant at West Memphis, Ark. The whole thing may be academic." He then quoted Adams as saying:

"I've got another problem, too, this week. That's the appropriations before the House of Representatives."

At the time Armstrong talked with Adams — in mid-June — the House was approaching a vote on the question of appropriating the 6½ milion dollars for a transmission line to connect the proposed Dixon-Yates power plant at West Memphis with the lines of the Tennessee Valley Authority. The House passed the bill but President Eisenhower has now ordered the whole Dixon-Yates contract canceled.

Accuse UAW Of Democrat Boosts on TV

DETROIT, July 20 (AP)—The government accused the CIO United Auto Workers union today of spending $5,985 illicly on television shows in behalf of Democratic candidates for Congress last year.

A 23-man federal grand jury, acting after an investigation of Republican charges, indicted the union on four counts for allegedly using union members' dues money to pay for the TV shows.

The indictment was brought under the Federal Corrupt Practices Act. The act prohibits use of union general funds (dues) to finance campaigns for federal office. It also prohibits banks and corporations from similar use of such funds.

The indictment named no union officials, nor did it say what candidates might have been aided by the TV shows.

One of the election victors in Michigan last fall was labor-backed Sen. Patrick V. McNamara, Democrat and an active AFL union man himself. McNamara defeated Republican Sen. Homer Ferguson.

A court battle over the act's constitutionality impended as a result of the indictment. Freedom of speech and of the press presumably would be issues.

Silent Dr. Sam, Now No. 98860, Starts Life Term

COLUMBUS, Ohio, July 20 (AP)—Dr. Samuel H. Sheppard, convicted of the bludgeon slaying of his pretty wife, Marilyn, became a number at Ohio Penitentiary today—No. 98860.

He arrived — to start a life sentence — at the gray stone prison near downtown Columbus at 3:52 p.m., shackled to a holdup man and in the custody of two deputy sheriffs who had known him almost since the day of the murder, July 4, 1954.

The 31-year-old osteopath, grim-visaged and silent, was hustled inside the prison. A newsman asked Sheppard if he had anything to say, as he walked briskly from the black police cruiser to the front entrance of the penitentiary.

Sheppard remained silent, not even turning his bare head.

Talmadge Is Board Chief Of New Insuror Firm Here

Former Gov. Herman Talmadge is listed as the chairman of the board of a new $7,000,000 investment company incorporated to enter the life and casualty insurance business in Georgia.

A registration statement filed with the secretary of state's office Wednesday also lists Garland Byrd, former state legislator from Reynolds, as president of the company.

OTHER OFFICERS

In addition to Talmadge and Byrd, the statement lists as directors Congressman John J. Flynt Jr., of Griffin, and Pierre Howard, Decatur attorney and former DeKalb County lawmaker.

Two Atlanta insurance men, Richard D. Harvey and Walter R. Matthews are named as vice presidents and directors. Howard is secretary-treasurer and general counsel.

INCORPORATORS LISTED

Name of the company, incorporated in DeKalb County on July 15, is the United American Investment Co.

Incorporators of the company are listed as Howard, Joseph U. McDow of Decatur and Donna A. Camp of Stockbridge.

Both the petition for charter and the registration statement said the company proposes to sell 3,500,000 shares of non par common stock at $2 a share.

The registration statement said $3,500,000 from the sale of this stock will be used to organize a legal reserve life insurance company that will be owned wholly by the investment firm. The name of that company is to be the United American Life Insurance Co.

SEVERAL FIELDS

Another $1,500,000, the statement said, will be used to organize an accident and casualty insurance company to be known as the Tourists Indemnity Co.

The balance of the proceeds from the stock sale will be used to engage in the mortgage loan business and related fields of mortgage financing, including commercial and industrial loans, construction financing and subdivision development financing.

The shares of stock already subscribed and paid for by the directors of the investment company total 22,500, the statement said, giving the corporation a current net worth of $45,000.

The biggest shareholder among the nine directors, according to the statement listings, is Carmichael with 10,000 shares. Carmichael was listed as the owner of the Ben Way Development Co., of Atlanta, and as a partner in the B. H. & W. Development Co., of Warner Robins.

The next largest shareholder as listed by the registration statement is Wilmer Parker, director and cashier of the Bank of Ozark, Ala., and former president of the Chamber of Commerce and Kiwanis Club of that city, with 4,000 shares.

All of the other directors are listed as holders of 1,250 shares of stock each, except Brown with 1,000.

Tobacco Markets Opening

An electrifying undercurrent of excitement gripped most of south Georgia Wednesday on the eve of the 1955 tobacco market. opening. Reports from the flue-cured belt indicated one of the best tobacco crops in years.

An Atlanta Constitution survey of tobacco counties typical of the producing area revealed excellent crop prospects with expected average yields of from 1,400 to 1,500 pounds per acre in most counties.

At the same time buyers flocking into the sales areas indicated a good demand for the golden leaf.

J. B. Harper, a buyer from Winston-Salem, N.C., who is in Swainsboro for the opening of a new market, said tobacco on the floor there indicated a "good, usable crop."

Harper, who has been buying tobacco on the Georgia market since 1919, said the 1955 crop appears to be one of the best in some time and that there should be a good demand for the leaf.

The good yields, coupled with the expectations for good demand and prices, lifted the spirit of south Georgia farmers on the rebound from last year's disastrous drought.

Most of the warehouses Wednesday were already filled with hundred of sheets to tobacco lined in orderly rows.

3 Youths Seized In Bus Station Robbery of Prof

Three youths Wednesday were held at city jail in connection with a robbery reported by an Atlanta ministerial school professor.

Lt. R. F. Jordan and Det. Y. H. Allen identified them as Robert Walton, 18, of a Peeples street, SW, address; Charlie R. Weaver, 19, of a Lee street, SW, address, and William D. Thornton, 20, of Techwood drive, NW.

They were charged with suspicion of robbery.

Dr. James Bowers, 37, of 2531 Dodson Dr., SW, head of the music department at Atlanta Christian College, said a youth approached him near the bus station, where he had gone to purchase a newspaper, held a gun or knife in his side and forced him to reenter his car.

Two others got into the car, Dr. Bowers said, and the three put him out on Cain street, near Techwood drive. The officers said they recovered Dr. Bowers' watch, car and $17 which he reported losing in the holdup.

Terror Story Of DeKalb Man Is Hoax

A 40-year-old cabinetmaker Wednesday admitted that an eerie story he had told of being beaten, robbed and left to die in a burning automobile was a hoax, DeKalb County police said.

Det. Capt. Ted Wayne said Garland Bryant Bailey of Tucker made the statement at Grady Hospital, where he still is listed in "fair" condition with first, second and third degree burns over 35 per cent of the body.

Wayne said Bailey made the statement in the presence of Lt. Frank Roberts and the county fire marshal.

Badly burned about the face and upper part of the body, Bailey awoke a restaurant operator at the base of Stone Mountain early Saturday. He said he picked up two teen-age hitchhikers who attacked him with a shotgun and pistol.

Police quoted Bailey as saying he regained consciousness to find his automobile enveloped in flames. He said he managed to get hold of a claw hammer, knocked out a rear window and crawled out.

Investigators found a badly burned shotgun in the car and were able to establish that Bailey purchased it, Wayne related. He said officers confronted Bailey with this and other evidence and that he admitted making up the entire story.

What actually happened, Wayne said, was that Bailey pulled his auto into a side road off Hwy. 78 near Stone Mountain and went to sleep. The captain added the auto evidently caught on fire from a lighted cigarette.

The story of Bailey's "narrow escape" at the hands of teen-age thugs created a widespread reaction over the state, DeKalb officers said.

Geneva Meeting Is Only the Beginning

Sometimes it appears that the rarefied air "at the summit" in Geneva has gone to the heads of some of the delegates, but otherwise things go about as expected.

Mr. Vyacheslav Molotov, who was in our country for the United Nations anniversary, and who put on a "personality" show, has been going about Geneva like an old ham actor, asking American reporters how many good notices he got in the U.S. papers. The Geneva meeting has given one and all an opportunity to show what jolly good fellows make up the four delegations. The Russians have been the most exhibitionist of all, beaming and glad-handing like candidates for Congress.

The Geneva conference is not at all the sort of thing Sir Winston Churchill had in mind when he coined the phrase "at the summit." He wanted a secret meeting in which the heads of the four nations met in private and made decisions. Geneva is thronged with reporters and observers and social gatherings dominate the event.

A secret, deliberate meeting leading to decisions was not possible. The tensions of the cold war had grown stronger. The international climate was not one which permitted an immediate turning to major decisions. Geneva had to be held to "break the ice," to "start the ball rolling."

There is, of course, disappointment that the Russians would not move to unify Germany. But, none really expected them to do so. Germany and unification remain on the agenda. Chancellor Adenaeur soon will go to Moscow. The Reds will seek to make a deal with him. But he has pledged to the West neither he nor his government will be a party to it. He will demand that the heads of governments at Geneva meet again to reach a decision.

Meanwhile, the ice has been broken.

We must not forget neither the West nor the Russians have had a change of heart. The Russians still are Communists. We still don't like communism. But, policy has changed. "The bomb," economic conditions, the reaction of all peoples against war require a lessening of tensions in Russia—as elsewhere. Geneva was the necessary opening move to obtain it.

Hartsfield Is Successful In Airport Aid Fight

The Senate yesterday sent to the White House a bill authorizing a $232,000,000 airport aid program. The additional funds will supplement a $20,000,000 appropriation already made at this session of Congress.

Local government units that participate in the program will have to match whatever federal grants desired.

The bill, which awaits the President's signature, is a victory for Atlanta's Mayor William B. Hartsfield. He has led the American Municipal Association's fight to get the federal government to recognize its responsibility in airport construction. Success of his efforts not only will benefit Atlanta, but every other city with a similar problem in interstate air transportation. We are grateful to him.

Although Atlanta's share of the fund still must be decided, it will help greatly in the improvement program now being planned. The growing traffic through Atlanta's airport makes such improvements imperative.

A State Budget Council Might Be the Answer

Those earnestly seeking economy in state government would do well to listen to former Rep. Charles Gowen of Brunswick, who last year was a candidate for governor whose honesty and integrity was unquestioned even by his opponents.

Speaking yesterday in Toccoa, Mr. Gowen pointed out that the state's budget system is antiquated and entirely in the hands of one man. The state is a 300-million-dollar business and yet every agency depends upon the governor for its share.

Even the Legislature, Mr. Gowen pointed out, "has sold its birthright for a mess of pottage in the form of handouts from the governor's office. . . . Continuing the spoils system in state finances can only result in even higher taxes, greater waste and unlimited extravagance."

As set up today—and let it be said that Gov. Griffin did not establish the system—state spending is on a "patronage basis."

Mr. Gowen suggests that a budget council be established to chart the direction of state spending, since the General Assembly is not performing its function properly. Since legislators must look to the governor for patronage and for projects affecting their own counties, they are all too willing to fall in line.

Dixon Oxford, retiring member of the State Highway Board, points to the same problem in the spending of 100 million dollars by the Rural Roads Authority. Awards of contracts to counties to do their own work on a negotiated basis could lead to incredible waste. Some counties merely turn these negotiated contracts over to private contractors, rent the contractors' equipment and hire the contractors' crews.

Spending of state funds on a patronage basis is the antithesis of economy. In the final analysis, it is a costly form of political blackmail.

Mr. Whitman's 'Sacrifice' Is a Touching Affair

Never before has the state of Georgia had a political appointee who has gone to any more trouble publicly to proclaim that he has sacrificed self and personal gain in order to serve the people than has George P. Whitman Jr., chairman of the State School Building Authority and of the State Board of Education.

Mr. Whitman publicly announced that he had resigned a $25,000-a-year job with a tape company to serve the state and pledged not to use his political position "in any way to further my well-being."

It is good to have Chairman Whitman's pledge of sacrifice of self and well-being on record. Otherwise cynical and suspicious persons might think that the award of $11,500,000 of insurance to the Phillips Sales Company might modestly have benefitted Mr. Whitman. To be sure, Ports Authority Comptroller J. E. Homer Kerr Jr., reveals to the United Press that he received a letter from Mr. Whitman thanking him for the insurance business and that Mr. Whitman signed himself as a representative of the Phillips Sales Company's insurance division.

But Mr. Whitman has cleared this up, and people should not be suspicious about it. He says he is not a stockholder and not an officer. He just deals through the company "sometime." A UP check of the records in Comptroller Zack Cravey's office reportedly showed that Mr. Whitman was licensed to sell insurance as of April, 1955. Later the records were "unavailable."

The Phillips Sales Company, which can sell a shovel or $11,500,000 of insurance, was incorporated in February, 1954. Originally located in a suburban drug store, it now has a mailing address at the College Park post office. Also using the same drawer is the Park Supply Company. The Phillips Company has been doing other business with the state besides insurance.

Mr. Whitman, in pledging a sacrifice of his well-being, announced that after resigning the $25,000 job, he had opened a private business of his own.

We hope that we may have no other political appointees who will put the state first in the way that Mr. Whitman has done.

Robert B. Pegram Was A Splendid Gentleman

Robert Baker Pegram, whose grandfather of the same name had a distinguished career in both the U.S. and Confederate Navies, died Wednesday at his home in Atlanta. He would have been 81 in August.

A gentle man of warm personality and force, it truly could be said of him that he was greatly beloved by a host of friends in all walks of life. A vice president of the Southern Railway until his retirement a few years ago, he was a well-known figure in national railway circles. He also was a director in a number of major financial institutions. He contributed greatly to the civic life of Atlanta.

Only the immediate family and his associates in "The Ten Club" knew him as a poet whose lyrics were a joy to read. He had a full life, of friendships and experiences, and the city is the poorer for his passing.

French Win Honors For Getting Far Away

The venerable society named the two outstanding events of this kind for 1954 as undersea exploration by a team of French naval officers and underground explorations by a pair of French cave lovers.

The naval officers descended 13,287 feet into the sea off Dakar on the African coast, while the cave men burrowed 2,485 feet into the earth near Grenoble.

The year 1954 was not the most peaceable in the history of the world, and the imaginative found it particularly horrible because of the increasing knowledge of the destruction the new nuclear weapons can bring about.

Somehow, it seems particularly fitting that the society's top honors for that year should go to those who, no matter what else they accomplished, penetrated places where man's new weapons could not follow.

State Board of Education Urged To Insist That All Teachers Be Given Deserved Raises

Macon — Recently the State Legislature voted funds which the State Board of Education specifically allocated for the purpose of giving all teachers flat raises. In addition, funds were set aside which gave raises to some teachers according to their training and experience. Thus, the school teachers of Georgia were to benefit and gain a somewhat overdue pay raise.

Now comes the ominous report that these raises may not be forthcoming in certain systems which pay slightly higher than the state salary scale. Is it possible that such action would be ignored by our State Board of Education?

The state is doing well for its teachers, compared to other states of comparative size and wealth. Our salaries for teachers are lower than other states not because of the state effort, but because the local systems do not shoulder a share of the financial burden. The rumored action above is reminiscent of happenings in 1951 when the MFP for Education was enacted.

The State Board of Education can certainly control such action by considering the withholding of all funds from school systems which do not pay their regular salary or previously contracted salary, plus any increases as set up by the flat raises and adjusted pay scale as discussed above, to any teacher in that system.

A TEACHER.

He Protests 'Sniping' At Cracker Manager

Atlanta—As a constant reader of your paper for the past 50 years, a baseball fan from the days of Billy Smith and Abner Powell, I wish to protest the dirty, underhanded manager-baiting of one Furman Bisher. He has all season long berated and sniped at the manager of Atlanta's team.

George Washington Called Psychologist

Atlanta—George Washington was a good psychologist. I quote from Washington's farewell address:

"It is important that the habits of thinking in a free country inspire caution in those entrusted with its administration to confine themselves within their respective constitutional spheres, avoiding in the exercise of powers of one department to encroach upon another. This spirit of encroachment tends to consolidate the powers of all three departments into one, creating, whatever the form of government, a real despotism."

GOP Under Ike Is 'Grand Old Phony'

Summerville—I do not know W. G. Hill of Atlanta, but I certainly wish I did. He possesses a rare political acumen and the rare ability to recognize a hypocrite.

I have been a lifelong Democrat, with the only exception that I, too, supported the chief (Hoover) in 1928, but for the Republican Party as such, I have the most profound respect. GOP used to mean "Grand Old Party," but under Eisenhower it means "Grand Old Phony." Anybody that thinks he is "innocent" should be committed to Gracewood because morons are not eligible at Milledgeville.

Incidentally, why don't you dare publish such letters as this? Is the Gestapo already functioning?

Costs, Labor, Production Are Luring Industry South

For years the Yankees have cried "foul" and blamed the flight of Northern industry to the booming South on underhand Southern bribes of lower taxes, lower wages and other inducements.

Only recently the Lynn, Mass., Daily Item in an editorial entitled "The Dixieland Myth," warned New England businessmen that Southern promises of lower taxes and wages might be offset by "lower productivity and less initiative."

The truth is that industry likes Dixie because of higher productivity, more individual initiative, lower costs, less labor troubles and more profit on the investment. Many Southern laborers accustomed to long, hard hours on the farms don't mind putting in a day's work for a day's pay. In fact, they are glad to do it. That's the answer.

The exaggeration that the South is able to attract Northern industry because it offers more "sugar" is sheer nonsense, and we can prove it. No area is offering more bribes than New England.

"A New England community will construct a modern electronics building in a fine industrial park with funds from its charitable corporation, and will arrange for training of labor and recruitment of engineers. Radiation laboratory of M.I.T. and other research centers only a half mile away. Five-year write-off on U.S. taxes. Highly trained staff can offer expert views on plant location in confidence."

New England qualifies as one of the biggest pots ever to call a kettle black (an unscorched Southern kettle, that is, suh).

Bicycling can be much fun for youngsters, but it leads them into peril if they're not coached in safety:

R. R. Caldwell, commissioner of the patrol, gives a set of bicycling safety rules:

2—Don't weave or stunt, but follow a straight line.

4—Put books and parcels in a carrier, and never take a passenger on a bicycle.

5—Obey all traffic laws, signals and signs.

8—Never ride a bicycle that's not in good condition.

Summer vacation time will tempt youngsters to make more bicycle trips. It's a time to make certain they observe the rules so they'll come unharmed out of traffic.

Texas Medic Applies Needle

The Davy Crockett rocket may be fizzling elsewhere, but not in San Antonio. For that I have the word of Walter Walthall, a medic in the Alamo city. Says Dr. Walthall, "The 'Davy Crockett boom' is not just a boom down here. It is something we live from day to day, week to week, and year to year. We know of the other 181 heroes as well as the great man Disney has immortalized. We revere the name of each, and no slur should be made."

The good doctor has taken umbrage at a column I wrote in June asking the name of the man who left the Alamo by the back door. (That fellow, you will recall, was one Moses Rose, a New Orleans teamster, who felt he had no stake in the Texas affair.)

Dr. Walthall, it seems, had read the Alamo piece during a June visit to Atlanta. On his return to Texas, he wrote describing Atlantans as "wonderfully friendly" and the traffic in Atlanta as "lousy." He suggests that I spend more time writing about the traffic situation than in "trying to malign Texas heroes."

Since Moses Rose was not a Texan, but merely a man with whom discretion was the better part of valor, I plead not guilty to the charge.

As for our traffic, doctor, you're picking no fight there.

Speaking of Texas, Charles Craven, Raleigh columnist, says a big oil man from Dallas pulled up in his Cadillac before the sumptuous Shamrock Hotel in Houston. He alighted and gave the doorman a $5 bill and said, "Take good care of my car, willya, Bub?"

"I sure will," replied the doorman. "I got one just like it myself."

Prayer's Answer Is in Many Forms

In response to my request for answers to prayer came many replies showing how God often works through people. One wrote: "A retired minister's wife who lives near me is very helpful to a little neighbor girl. Her parents are poor and I noticed last Sunday at church that the little girl needed some better clothes.

"I told the minister's wife that I wanted to give her the money to buy the little girl some things. She almost broke into tears and said, 'Before coming today, I prayed that someone would help her buy the clothes the little girl needed.' Some other ladies heard the conversation and they also gave and now the little girl has all she needs." Would you say that God put it into the heart of that woman to notice the child's clothes and to want to give to her? That lady who gave and the one who prayed believe it was prayer that made the difference. I do, too.

Through the years I have read much about mental telepathy, thought transference, etc. Among the answers to prayer were many somewhat in that category. For example, this one: "At times I was troubled about my son who was away during World War II. When that feeling came over me, I would stop whatever I was doing, kneel and ask God to be very near to my boy. One day I wrote him asking if there were times when he seemed he could not go on and then he would, for no apparent reason, feel a lot better and feel peace and comfort in his heart. He wrote he had that experience many times. Then I knew God had answered my prayers."

Another wrote: "One of my sons had been ill for some time and had failed to let me hear from him. I became very much distressed and became more and more anxious about him. Finally I reached the point I felt I could stand it no longer. Since I did not know how to get in touch with him by phone, I knelt and pleaded with God to 'let a letter come to me in the next mail.' I arose and got into my bed. Just then the phone rang. It was my sick son. He said, 'Mama, I got you so strongly on my mind tonight that I just had to call.' God heard and answered my prayer." Did that boy just happen to think of calling his mother or was he prompted by some higher power?

Does God guide us directly in the making of certain decisions? One wrote: "I was confronted with a problem. Something came up that I did not want to do, yet I wanted God's will done. I decided to go into the living room, get on my knees and ask God to make it plain to me if I should do this thing or not. I seemed to receive no answer and presently got up to leave the room. As I touched the door knob, I clearly heard a voice saying, 'Do it, do it, do it.' My burden was lifted and I found it easy to do what I then knew He wanted me to do." Tomorrow we will look at other answers to prayer.

Cordiality Prevails On Geneva Surface

GENEVA—For a conference of this kind, with some 1,500 correspondents from every corner of the globe busily interviewing one another, Geneva is remarkably free from dogmatic speculation. The reason for this is that nobody, including the Big Four themselves, really knows what is going to be the end result. For any of us to pretend otherwise would mislead both the public and ourselves.

The minimum purpose of this momentous meeting will be accomplished:—to measure the mood and will of the men of the Kremlin and to determine whether the time is ripe to undertake a series of long, slow, patient negotiations to resolve the dangerous tension of the cold war.

It is evident from the public remarks each made on his arrival here this weekend that President Eisenhower and Premier Bulganin have brought to the conference table at Geneva an attitude of cordiality and conciliation.

What is not yet evident to the Western leaders—and this same doubt can understandably exist in reverse—is whether this conciliatory mood and manner of the Soviet High Command is tactical and superficial or substantial and meaningful.

Everyone seems to agree here that both West and East want to ease world tensions and reduce the burden of mounting armaments. But a practical unresolved question is whether each side is prepared to pay a price acceptable to the other.

1. Abolish atomic weapons.
2. Dismantle NATO bases.
3. Re-unite Germany under a policy of enforced neutrality.

This asking price would not be acceptable to the West.

The Western asking price is this:

1. Abolish the Cominform and stop interfering in internal affairs of other countries.
2. Hold free elections in what used to be the free nations of Eastern Europe, as agreed at Yalta.
3. Permit a reunited Germany to make its own decision to join or not to join any alliance it wishes.

This asking price will not be acceptable to the Kremlin.

My information is that President Eisenhower, Prime Minister Eden and Premier Faure are prepared to ask less and give something in return—if there is Soviet reciprocity. We do not really expect the Kremlin will call off the Communist parties around the world. We do not expect an early relaxing of the Soviet grip on the satellite states.

But if any real headway is to be made, we will require that Germany be united and free to align itself with Western Europe if it wishes.

In return the West is prepared to work out strict limitation and control of armaments on the continent of Europe in which Moscow would participate and which would guarantee the joint defense of the Soviet Union if it is ever attacked by any NATO country.

If this approach starts to break the cold war's diplomatic log-jam, then Geneva may ultimately get a bigger headline in history than the atom bomb's test explosion on the New Mexico flats 10 years ago.

Southern Democrats Support Stevenson

WASHINGTON—An interesting situation is developing within the Democratic Party regarding Adlai Stevenson, the 1952 presidential candidate who still is front-runner for the 1956 nomination, and Gov. Averell Harriman of New York who is beginning to be boosted by some within the party for the top spot next year.

So far as the two men are concerned there seems to be no conflict or rivalry. When Gov. Harriman says, as he does repeatedly, that he is for Adlai Stevenson's renomination, his word is accepted.

This promotion of Gov. Harriman for the Democratic nomination is of significance because it points up once again the continuous battle within the Democratic Party for control and outlines sharply the schisms that exist.

Once the name of Gov. Harriman as a candidate was circulated around others took a fancy to the idea. These include those who honestly believe a governor of New York would run stronger against President Eisenhower than an ex-governor of Illinois.

The Harriman candidacy is also regarded by some of the New Deal-Fair Deal wing of the party as a better means to retain control of the party than a return engagement by Adlai Stevenson who has been warming up and edging up to the Southern wing of the party which is always seeking to regain its one-time influence in the party nationally.

Heretofore most Southern leaders had come to feel that renomination of Adlai Stevenson was inevitable, and the best solution of the party's dilemma. So, paradoxical as it might be in a way, Adlai Stevenson has become the candidate of Southern conservative leaders.

Perhaps the most interesting — and certainly a significant — development in the Democratic Party is a spirit of resignation among many Southern leaders toward 1956.

They do not seem really concerned about recapture of the White House. Congress is more important to them. Unprecedented as it would be in a presidential election year to see the election of a Republican president and a Democratic Congress, this is what Southern Democratic leaders confidently expect. That would be a happy circumstance to them.

Continued Democratic control of Congress, which means continued Southern Democratic ascendancy, would strengthen the Southern hold on the party and party machinery. This, the Southern leaders anticipate would give them more voice in the government when they do regain control of the White House—and the date they fix for that is four years from 1956.

Gowen Charges One-Man Control of State Spending

By JIMMY WALKER
Constitution Staff Writer

TOCCOA, July 20—Charlie Gowen Wednesday lashed at what he charged was one-man control of state money with pursestrings made of "political patronage."

The Brunswick attorney and 1954 gubernatorial candidate accused the Legislature of handing over to the governor its constitutional right to control spending.

Charles Gowen

Speaking to the Toccoa Rotary Club, he called on the Legislature to either regain its control over expenditures or create a state budget council.

"This is not critical of any particular administration," he said. "The tendency began in the depression and progressed through six or seven administrations."

The Legislature's loss of controls, he said, was culminated in the special tax session last month when the General Assembly passed a resolution instructing the governor to spend the $40,000,000 in new taxes a certain way.

Control of the money by the governor opens the way for the spoils system, Gowen asserted. "Too often, what your county gets in state money depends on how it went in the last election, not on what it needs." Bad government, waste and corruption follow where the system of checks and balances breaks down in government, Gowen said.

With so much financial power, will the governor turn down those whom he went to for help to get elected? Gowen asked. He said, "People say Georgia has grown too big for the Legislature to dole out the money. If so, a state budget council would act as a board of directors to chart the course of state spending." Gowen suggested it consist of members of the Legislature, the speaker of the House, president of the Senate, governor, comptroller general, treasurer and other constitutional officers.

"Such a council would make possible a comprehensive system of roads, schools, public health and welfare and other services that would reach into every county," he said.

Kirkwood Health Center Approved

Public Health Service officials in Washington has announced that preliminary approval has been given to a proposed DeKalb County auxiliary health center in Kirkwood.

The PHS would contribute $20,000 to the $60,000 project under the present plans.

Dr. T. O. Vinson, director of DeKalb's health service, said the proposed center would serve all of Atlanta in DeKalb, and would be located on Rogers avenue off Boulevard.

Dr. Vinson said the remaining $40,000 would be appropriated from both state and county funds.

Warrant Issued for Parolee Facing Macon Charge

The State Board of Pardons and Paroles has issued a warrant for Billy R. Chapman on a charge of violating parole.

Chairman Hugh Carney said the Board ordered Chapman brought before it for revocation of his parole on a six months jail sentence imposed by the City Court of Macon on top of a 12-month term in a public works camp.

Carney said if there is any question about the Board's jurisdiction, Chapman will have to file habeas corpus action.

The warrant was issued as the result of Chapman's recent arrest in Macon on a charge of simple larceny. He was released on $150 bond.

Chapman was sentenced to 12 months in prison and 6 months in jail last September. He was paroled last February after serving six months and Carney said the Board considered his sentence to be 18 months in determining his eligibility for parole.

Hints Listed For Calypso Beginners

By CHARLES GOREN

ARTICLE XI

After you have played Calypso several times it is quite likely that you will devise your own conventions and methods of play, but the following observations may be found useful:

1. You should try to win tricks with cards that will help you or partner to complete Calypsos. Try not to play cards useful to the opponents in forming their Calypsoes on tricks which the opponents might take.

2. It is advisable to keep until later in the deal one or more high cards in your own trump suit in order to take a trick containing important cards.

3. Care should be taken when a player's partner has led to a trick a card which is likely to take the trick; in this case it may be advisable if a player cannot follow suit either to discard, or to trump according to whether or not it appears desirable to lead to the next trick or leave the lead with partner.

4. Be careful in leading partner's trump suit. Normally this is inadvisable unless the card led is the ace, as unless partner holds an ace of his own suit, this play will reduce the value of partner's trump suit to that of a non-trump suit.

Remember that Calypso can also be played individually with four players scoring for themselves. It can also be played with three players in which case three packs of cards only will be used and one complete identical suit removed from each pack, leaving 39 cards in each pack or a total of 117 cards, and will consist of three deals. When five wish to play, the sides consist of three players on one side and two players on the other. One member of the trio sits out during each of the four deals, taking turns so that no player sits out for two deals in a row. When six wish ot play, two such trios play against each other, with two players sitting out.

The player cutting the high card has choice of suit, deal and position. In partnerships, the two high cuts play together and the two low.

Tomorrow: Important Cards

Health Units Braced for Atom Attack

Georgia health centers are well supplied with radiation detection equipment.

R. H. Byers, industrial hygienist of the State Department of Public Health, said that all five Georgia centers have all the radiation detection instruments that would be needed in case of atomic attack.

He was speaking at a morning session on the Civil Defense course for public health officials at the Greater Atlanta Red Cross Chapter Building.

Byers explained that the radiation instruments are divided into three categories: The survey type, to adjudge the amount of radiation in certain areas; the individual type, to examine a single person for radiation, and the laboratory type, to gauge quantity and type of radio activity.

In another talk, M. Stangler, health physicist at the Robert A. Taft Sanitary Engineering Center in Cincinnati, Ohio, discussed individual detection devices.

One is the "pocket dosimeter." The dosimeter is a small yellow cylinder that fastens on the pocket like a pencil. One can read a gauge and tell exactly the amount of radiation that he is receiving.

The other is the film badge which can be clipped on clothing. It darkens according to the amount of radiation.

Baptists Elect Adams With Help of Newton

Special to The Constitution

LONDON, July 20—Dr. Theodore F. Adams, 57, pastor of the First Baptist Church of Richmond, Va., Wednesday was elected to a five-year term as president of the Baptist World Alliance.

He succeeds Dr. F. Townley Lord of London.

Dr. Louie D. Newton, pastor of Atlanta's Druid Hills Baptist Church, was a chief contender for the post.

Immediately after Dr. Adams' name was read out by the chairman of the nominating committee, Dr. Newton, a vice president of the alliance, jumped to his feet to second the nomination. His words were drowned out in the handclapping and cheering that followed.

The Rev. Yakov Zhidkov, head of the Russian Baptist Church, was one of nine vice presidents chosen by the assembly. He will play host to Dr. Adams and three other Baptist leaders during a trip to Russia next month.

Dr. Arnold T. Ohrn of Washington, D.C., was reelected general secretary of the alliance.

Atlanta Baptists are taking important parts in the congress program. Dr. Newton was a key speaker at the opening session last Sunday. The Atlanta Baptist Assn. choir has sung at several sessions.

Other Southern Baptists on the program include Dr. Walter Pope Binns of Liberty, Mo.; Dr. H. Guy Moore of Fort Worth, Tex.; Dr. Adams, and Dr. J. D. Gray, New Orleans, La.

Dr. Josef Nordenhaug, who is under appointment by the Southern Baptist Foreign Mission Board and now is serving as president of the International Baptist Theological Seminary in Zurich, Switzerland, also has been a principal speaker.

In an address Wednesday on "Christ and the Refugees," Dr. W. O. Lewis of London called for a liberalization of the American Refugee Relief Act, which expires in 1956.

"That law provides for the admission of 205,000 refugees, but only a small fraction of that number have been able to enter the United States," he said. "We hope this law may be liberalized and that it may be extended until the entire number envisaged will be admitted."

Airport Aid Of 3 Million City's Hope

Mayor Hartsfield said Wednesday that Atlanta hopes to get two or three million dollars" in federal funds under an airport construction program bill.

The Senate sent the bill to the White House Wednesday after accepting house changes in the measure, which originally was sponsored by Sen. Manroney (D-Okla.).

The bill makes available 232 million in federal grants to states and cities over a four-year period starting with the current financial year, which began July 1, and running through fiscal 1959.

MATCHED LOCALLY

To this is added 20 million for similar grants already appropriated this season for the current year. The total 252 million in federal money would be matched by local government units.

Eisenhower administration officials objected to the bill when it was before the Senate Commerce Committee because of its financing features. Thus the President's decision on it is in doubt.

The bill allows the secretary of commerce to enter into contracts with states and cities pledging the federal government to make grants. In effect, this would leave the appropriations committees with little to do but pick up the check.

PLAN NECESSARY

Monroney said the contract authority plan was necessary so that local groups could make firm plans for airport projects.

Mayor Hartsfield, who as chairman of the American Municipal Assn.'s aviation committee headed the campaign for passage of the bill, said:

Explosive Show Marks 81st Division Birthday

By LLOYD BRYANT
Constitution Staff Writer

FT. JACKSON, S.C., July 20—A noisy, explosive show of military strength and efficiency Wednesday marked the 38th birthday of the famous 81st Wildcat Infantry Division here.

It was officially "Wildcat Day" and about 50 industrialists, civic leaders, military officials and newsmen from Georgia and Tennessee visited this South Carolina military post to honor the fighting outfit that was organized here in 1917.

Early showers that threatened to dampen the exercises gave way to 100-degree heat which was still no match for the torrid show on the firing line. The visitors saw everything from .45-caliber pistols to tanks blaze away at an imaginary enemy.

The display of infantry firepower, the first of its kind in the division's history, was climaxed by a "mad minute," in which every weapon known to foot soldiers laid down a blistering simultaneous barrage on a single target.

The 81st, now a reserve unit composed of citizen-soldiers from Georgia and Tennessee, demonstrated the versatility and training of Army reservists. They were supported by the 101st Airborne Division, a regular Army unit stationed at Ft. Jackson.

Maj. Gen. Carl T. Sutherland of Atlanta, 81st commander, welcomed the outfit's guests. He told them today's reservists "are the Army's 'Minute Men,' ready at a moment's notice to defend the security of America."

Guests from the Atlanta area, other than radio and newspaper personnel, were Archie L. Lindsey, county commission chairman; Hastings; Park Huntt, Hurt and Quin, Inc.; D. E. Woodman, Woodman Co. Inc.; Howard B. Harmon, vice president of Retail Credit Co.; Dr. Gordon Brown, assistant chancellor of the University System; Walter Cates, Georgia Chamber of Commerce, and Lt. Gen. Alvan C. Gillem, U.S.A. (Ret.).

Curb Sex Crimes, Jury Urges State

Constitution State News Service

MILLEDGEVILLE, July 20 — The grand jury serving in the July term of Baldwin Superior Court called on the State Legislature to take action to control sex crimes.

The grand jury deplored the laxity that permits known sex criminals to prey on society and asked that legislation be enacted to keep known sex offenders under supervision.

The jury recommended, also, that the legislature change the law that throws sanity hearing cases in the Baldwin County courts when patients at the Milledgeville State Hospital are seeking release from the institution. The jury recommends that such cases be tried in the home county of each patient.

It was suggested that the principal road leading to the State Hospital be placed under a zoning plan to control speeding. The other recommendation by the jurors calls for padlocking of a drive-in located on Eatonton Highway near the two local motels.

AU Summer Theater

The Atlanta University Summer Theater will begin a three-day run of William Archibald's "The Innocents" at 8 p.m. in Howe Hall at Spelman College.

22 Added to University of Georgia Faculty

Constitution State News Service

ATHENS, July 20—The addition of 22 members to the University of Georgia faculty has been announced by Dr. A. B. Biscoe, dean of faculties.

The new members, all recently approved by the board of regents, are Frazer Moore, assistant professor of journalism; Davy-Jo Stribling, instructor in libraries; Dr. J. LeRoy Davidson, professor of art; Ulfert Wilke, visiting associate professor of art;

Jerry Hill Padgett, assistant agricultural economist, College Experiment Station; James Travis Reid, assistant agricultural engineer, Georgia Experiment Station; Grady Vaughn Calvert, project manager, Georgia Experiment Station; Jasper P. Newton, research assistant in agronomy, Georgia Experiment Station;

Frank E. Mitchell, assistant veterinarian, Coastal Plain Experiment Station; Milton E. Walker, assistant soil scientist, Coastal Experiment Station; William Horace Sell, assistant agronomist, Agricultural Extension Service; Harold Burney Goolsby, assistant agricultural engineer, Agricultural Extension Service;

Dr. Marvin Lee Fleming, instructor in veterinary medicine and surgery; Dr. Helen Elaine Jordan, instructor in veterinary pathology and parasitology; Miss Marily L. McDonald, instructor in physical education; and Lloyd Clifford Brewton, instructor in pharmacy.

Labor, Welfare Bill $600 Million Under Ike's Plea

WASHINGTON, July 20 (AP)—Congress today completed action on a bill providing $2,373,516,500 to run the Labor and Welfare departments in the current fiscal year.

About $1,900,000,000 of the total is earmarked for the Welfare Department and the remainder for the Labor Department.

Both the Senate and the House previously had passed separate bills, the Senate originally voting $2,404,905,600 and the House $2,337,552,261.

OIL MAGNATE DIES
C. S. Gulbenkian

'Mr. G,' Oil Billionaire, Dead at 86

LISBON, Portugal, July 20 (AP)—Calouste Sarkis Gulbenkian, whose legendary operations in Middle East oil fields made him one of the richest men in the world, died today of a kidney ailment. He was 86.

Known as "Mr. G" or "Mr. Five Per Cent" in the oil industry, Gulbenkian was rated probably a billionaire, yet he was little known. He died in his suite in the Hotel Avis where from his combination office-living room, he directed a world-wide organization of agents, attorneys and middlemen. He became seriously ill in January.

SHUNNED PUBLICITY

Short, bald and stocky, Gulbenkian was one of the most mysterious men in the world. He shunned publicity and was rarely photographed. His talents were dedicated to acquiring wealth, one of the most valuable art collections of all time, and keeping himself obscure.

A giant operator in oil, the main source of his fortune, Gulbenkian also traded in foreign currencies and invested in enterprises ranging from pharmaceuticals to hotels and orchids.

Gulbenkian, an Armenian who acquired British citizenship in 1902, was a broker and bargainer in oil deals involving millions, appearing mysteriously when one was shaping up, then disappearing with a huge slice of the profits.

EXPORTER'S SON

The designation "Mr. Five Per Cent" was a reference to his reported share of the profits of the immense rich Iraq Petroleum Co. He had other holdings in British, French and American companies.

Just how Gulbenkian got his start in oil probably never will be known fully. Born in Constantinople, now Istanbul, he was the son of an exporter. In 1909 he turned up as chief financial adviser to the Turkish government and set up the Turkish Petroleum Co. in which he held 40 per cent of the stock. After World War I, this became the Iraq Petroleum Company.

For 50 years he spent millions in assembling one of the world's finest collections of paintings, including six of the most valuable from the Russian Imperial art treasures. In acquiring the latter he bested agents of the late Andrew W. Mellon, American collector.

Post Created To Boost Use Of U.S. Cotton

WASHINGTON, July 20 (AP) — The agriculture department announced today that it has created a $9,600-a-year job to tell textile manufacturers abroad that U.S. cotton is the best in the world."

The post went to T. F. W. Bailey, formerly with the Institute of Textile Technology at Charlottesville, Va., and a native of Clinton, S. C.

Announcement of the new post was made as cotton markets throughout the world waited a statement from Secretary of Agriculture Benson on what this country's cotton export policies will be for the marketing year beginning July 1.

There has been speculation that the department might offer some of its surplus cotton abroad at prices below the government's price supported domestic market, in an effort to boost foreign sales. At the present time, U. S. cotton is selling in export markets at prices somewhat above world levels.

Benson had promised a statement before the end of this month and aides said it might be made tomorrow.

The department said Bailey's job will be to explain the "superior qualities" of American cotton to foreign users and to help them to utilize fully those qualities.

Mamie To Fete Big 4 Wives

GENEVA, July 20 (AP) — Mrs. Mamie Eisenhower will entertain a group of Big Four wives for luncheon and a boat ride tomorrow.

The guests include Mrs. Max Petitpierre, wife of the President of Switzerland; Lady Eden, wife of the British Prime Minister; Mrs. John Foster Dulles, wife of the American secretary of state; Mrs. Edgar Faure, wife of the French Premier, Lady Dorothy Macmillan, wife of the British foreign secretary.

Stingless Bees Yield Lots of (Bad) Honey

WASHINGTON, July 20 (AP)—The Smithsonian Institution reports it is raising a race of stingless bees in its biological station at Barro Corado Island in the Panama Canal Zone. The bees produce lots of honey, the institution says, but most people find it pretty nauseating.

GI, AWOL 16 Months, Returned by Soviet

BERLIN, July 20 (AP)—An American soldier absent without leave from his West Berlin unit for more than 16 months was returned today by Soviet authorities.

He was identified as Pvt. Tommy R. Woods, 24, of Rogersville, Tenn., where his father, Calvin F. Woods, lives at 404 College St.

Woods was handed over to U.S. Army officers at Soviet headquarters in Karlhorst. He told Army authorities he spent the entire period of his absence in East Germany.

When he went AWOL March 1, 1954, Woods was on orders to be transferred to the United States for discharge.

On March 3, the Communist ADN news agency reported Woods had asked the East German government for asylum. ADN quoted him as saying that he disagreed with U. S. policy "and with the law of McCarthy."

The Army said Woods, a member of the 6th Infantry Regiment, will be confined until the circumstances of his disappearance have been investigated. He will undergo a medical examination first.

That Lemon Guy

BIRMINGHAM, Ala., July 20—Jim Lemon of Chattanooga stroked his fourth home run over the left-field fence and out of Rickwood Park Tuesday night, breaking the old record for home runs hit by a single player in the Southern Association All-Star game, set in the seventh inning by Jim Lemon of Chattanooga, breaking the record tied in the third inning by Jim Lemon of Chattanooga.

After that, everybody went home for there was nothing left to see in an all-star game. The scene they left behind them made the home park of the Birmingham Barons, Lemon's victims, 10-5, look like the bricklayers' local had been holding their annual Labor Day picnic there.

Bisher

There had been 19,830 litterbugs on the lot, spreading the wrappers and remains of 15,00 hot dogs, one ton of peanuts, 700 pounds of popcorn and 48,000 bottles of pop. The most prominent remains, however, were those of the Birmingham Barons, who had been subjected to the most fierce bombardment in the history of the league. They were not particularly disturbed remains. The Lemon performance had been a privilege to watch.

Perhaps the most disturbed man on the scene was Joe Engel, slugger Lemon's employer. He was seen leaving the park early to call Washington and tell Charlie Dressen that he shouldn't be impressed by this offensive gluttony.

"Of course this guy's just a flash in the pan," Engel said. "He probably won't do that again this season."

—Surrender to Another Lemon

This is the summit of the resurgence in an odd career. Five years ago Lemon struck 39 home runs at Oklahoma City in the Texas League. The Cleveland Indians, who'd signed Lemon out of Covington, Va., recalled him.

This presented an immediate problem. In those days, Lemon was traveling as a Bob, since his proper name was James Robert. The Indians already had a Bob Lemon, the pitching refugee from third base. While one Bob Lemon is never enough, it still seemed necessary to dispense with one here. James Robert made the sacrifice. He bowed to the priority of Robert Granville Lemon. He became Jim.

While this should have been of no consequence, still the career of this Lemon failed to make a hairpin turn as Jim and the big fellow crashed headlong into a morass from which he has only recently recovered.

"It was the Army, I guess," he said. "Nobody ever goes in the same and comes out the same. They either come back a better or a worse ball player than they were. I was 24 when I went in and I just couldn't find myself when I got out.

"Sure, I played Army ball, but that's not this kind of ball. You don't see much good pitching. I just got rusty, that's all."

Cleveland sold Lemon to Washington last year, and for the longest time it has looked as though the Griffiths had bought a lower-case lemon. They put him through shool at Charlotte last year. He hit .348 and was called in. Whatever happened to him with Washington must not have been of a pleasant nature, for when a fellow asked him what he thought about Dressen and his chances of getting back to the Nats, he said:

"No comment." It was a brisk, terse no comment."

—Happier Days in the Outfield

Lemon is now working on his third position as a Lookout. He is a big fellow, six feet, five inches tall and built like a whip. This gave the Senators the idea he might be able to play first base. He was an excellent target, but he frequently came up unglued from the ball. He was moved to third.

He covered the real estate over there like a octopus, but he was timid about the throw to first. He was moved back to the outfield, where he trained in his previous minor league days. He appears to be much happier there.

Lemon gets power out of every batting movement he makes. His first and third homers Tuesday night were to right field, where a fence-straddling member of the 19,830 tab shagged the third one. The second and fourth were directed to left field.

"I could have caught the second one," County Brown said, "if it hadn't been for the crowd on the field, but the last one was out of the park. It went over everything."

This was the only serious event of an otherwise hilarious evening. It was like a human flood. The 19,830 rollicked all about the lot, copping foul balls, picnicking on the ground, teasing the cops and swarming their heroes. The game was held up when a herd of kids raced into right field for Lemon's autograph after his third home run. Eddie Glennon, the Birmingham general manager, who customarily dies with defeat, was totally unconscious of the score. He and his organization had done their job well, and that was more important than winning this night.

Three fellows left the park early to get their choice of cabs just as Lemon came up in the ninth.

"He couldn't possibly hit another one," said the 1st man.

"Of course not," said the second.

"Of course not," agreed the third.

There was a tremendous roar just as they clambered into the taxi. The three men looked at each other. They knew. "Oh, well, I should worry," said one. "After all, I walked out on Johnny Vander Meer's second no-hitter in Brooklyn several years ago."

TEAS, MOORHEAD QUIT PRO FOOTBALL CAMPS

By LARRY FOX

The military draft has cost the Los Angeles Rams their second rookie prospect from Georgia Tech this year while a third former Engineer decided Wednesday that a two-year service layoff was too great an obstacle to conquer with the Baltimore Colts.

Bobby Moorhead

Billy Teas

Billy Teas, former Tech halfback, told The Constitution from his Andrews, N.C., home that he had left the Rams' camp in Redlands, Calif., to await induction into the Army. "I am 1-A and expect to be drafted next month," he said. "Therefore the Rams and I both thought there was no need for me to stick around camp. I had been doing pretty well out there and got through the first big squad cuts. I expect to try pro ball again when I get out."

Henry Hair, a Tech end, earlier decided not even to report to the Rams because of his impending service call. Larry Morris, Tech center, is still with the National Football League club.

Meanwhile, the Baltimore Colts office told The Constitution that former Jacket star Bobby Moorhead of Miami, Fla., had left the camp "at his own request" Wednesday.

Moorhead, all-America defensive halfback at Tech in 1952, said, "I feel two years in the Army hurt my chances of returning to pro ball." Colt Coach Weeb Ewbank said he had prevailed on Moorhead to stay.

Moorhead, signed originally by the Colts, jumped camp in 1953 and played briefly with Toronto in the Canadian Big Four League.

Chicago Breaks Slump; Big Don Captures 16th

BROOKLYN, July 20 (AP)—The Chicago Cubs rallied for three seventh-inning runs tonight to beat Brooklyn, 5-3, and snap a nine-game losing slump in the second game of a twi-night doubleheader.

Don Newcombe nailed his 16th victory with a two-hitter and five Dodger home runs as the National League leaders romped 10-1 in the opener.

Duke Snider, who said he felt weak as he return from a virus bout, and Don Zimmer, each belted a pair of homer in the opener. Gil Hodges got the other.

Phillies Run Skein To Nine, 6-0, 4-2

PHILADELPHIA, July 20 (AP)—Willie Jones' 12th homer—a lead-off bases-empty blast in the fourth inning—was all the margin Curt Simmons and the Philadelphia Phillies needed tonight to beat Cincinnati 4-2 in the second game of a twi-night twin bill, extending their current win streak to nine. The Phils took the opener 6-0 on Saul Rogovin's five-hitter and Andy Seminick's 11th homer after Del Ennis and Jones walked in the fourth.

Bucs' Ward, Shepard Gang Milwaukee, 4-3

PITTSBURGH, July 20 (AP)—After Preston Ward hit a three-run pinch homer to tie the game in the seventh inning the Pittsburgh Pirates pushed across another run in the ninth tonight to edge the Milwaukee Braves 4-3.

Fans Cheer Crackers As Mann Hunts Pilot

Miss Georgia, Anderson Top Program at Poncey Tonight

By JESSE OUTLAR

The world's strongest man, the state's prettiest girl and one of the nation's top football coaches will share the stage with Atlanta and Memphis on the "Cheer the Crackers" program Thursday night at Ponce de Leon Park.

Curtain goes up on the double-header at 6:30, as acting Manager Marv Rackley debuts before the home folks in the first link of a 12-game home stand.

Paul Anderson

Bobby Dodd

Paul Anderson, the world's strongest man, and Jeanine Parris, Miss Georgia, are the feature attractions on the between-game show, which will be emceed by Bobby Dodd, Georgia Tech's bowl-minded head coach.

Though they are bogged down in sixth-place, nine and a half laps off the pace with 53 games remaining, the Crackers will be treated like champs — for one night.

After hearing boos most of the season, nothing but cheers will fill their ears.

Joe Piercey

Murray Wall

and 21 civic clubs and the Chamber of Commerce helped him whip up the program.

In addition, Cracker owner Earl Mann, who has presented Atlanta fans eight pennants and two Dixie Series flags, will be presented a citation certificate by the Chamber of Commerce.

While the "Cheer the Crackers" committee was putting final touches to their night Wednesday, Mann was searching for a manager, who would give Atlanta something to cheer about.

However, the Cracker chief reported that there were no new developments in his search for a successor to George McQuinn. McQuinn resigned in Nashville last Saturday, setting off a wave of speculation around the Southern.

Whitlow Wyatt, the miracle manager of 1954; Connie Ryan, now at Corpus Christi; Eddie Stanky, the ousted St. Louis Card pilot; and Hugh Poland, ex-Nashville manager, are names that have been mentioned.

Wyatt, of course, would be a unanimous choice of the public and the front office but, unfortunately, he's signed to a three-year contract as a coach with the Philadelphia Phils. So mark him off.

Stanky was offered the Nashville job shortly after getting the boot at St. Louis, but wasn't interested. So it's doubtful if he'd want to hook on with the Crackers at this stage. This leaves erstwhile Cracker Ryan and Poland as prospects. Undoubtedly there's a long list of candidates, but none of the names have appealed to Mann.

Meanwhile, Rackley will continue as boss, and the Crackers must make their move under him. A few more setbacks and they'll be out of first-division striking distance.

Mann took time out from his managerial search Wednesday and sold Jumping Joe Piercey to Houston of the Texas League. Piercey, who quit the club in Memphis last Friday, was signed as a free agent last winter and appeared in 39 games this year.

To reinforce the mound staff, Mann traded infielder Jack Caro to Beaumont for Mike Clark Tuesday. And the veteran right-hander may make his first appearance in the short game Thursday night. Murray Wall (9-8), the loop's workhorse, is booked for the nine-inning contest.

Susce Halts A's on Lone Single, 6-0

Power's Leadoff Blow Is 'Spoiler'

KANSAS CITY, July 20 (AP)—George Susce gave up only a lead-off single to Vic Power tonight as the Boston Red Sox shut out the sinking Kansas City Athletics, 6-0.

Susce, son of George Susce, bullpen coach of the Athletics, struck out five and walked three as he won his fifth victory against three defeats.

Singles by Sammy White, Grady Hatton and Billy Klaus plus Billy Goodman's double got the four runs for the Sox and that was all the 24-year-old right-hander Susce needed.

Donovan Wins 8th Straight, Trimming Yank Lead to Two

Turley Slammed for Loss; Consuegra Tough in Relief

CHICAGO, July 20 (AP)—Dick Donovan notched his eighth straight victory, although chased by a five-run New York seventh, as the White Sox wrapped up two early four-run innings to defeat the Yankees, 8-6, and trim their first-place margin to two games tonight.

The Sox were held hitless after the third.

A throng of 36,869 saw fast-balling Bob Turley fail as a Yankee starter. He faced only five batters in the first inning and was charged with his eighth setback against 11 victories.

Bob Turley

Donovan needed help from rubber - armed Sandy Consuegra, who finally throttled the Yankee threat. Billy Pierce had to rescue Consuegra in a one-run Yankee ninth.

Fuentes Wins Split Decision

NEW YORK, July 20 (AP)—Ramon Fuentes of Los Angeles, won a split decision over Hector Constance of Trinidad tonight by staging a solid finish in a 10-round battle of counter punches at Madison Square Garden. Constance weighed 147½, Fuentes 131.

The closest thing to a knockdown came in the ninth when Fuentes, bleeding from the mouth and a cut on his chin, almost dropped the Calypso Kid with a right to the jaw. Failing to take advantage of his big chance to end the bout.

TY COBB VISITS LOCAL BARBER M. C. ROLAND

TOO MANY DISTRACTIONS

Cash-Happy Players Of Today Irk Cobb

Ty Cobb, who played the game for keeps, thinks too many modern major leaguers play the game entirely for profit.

The famous Georgia Hall of Famer, visiting Atlanta Wednesday in connection with the Cobb Education Foundation, is pleased to see today's stars pulling down fabulous salaries. But he'd like to see some of them put more into the game, which they take so much out of.

"Players put too much emphasis on things outside of baseball," Cobb said as he checked into a local hotel. "They talk about the stock market, the movies, and football. Anything but baseball.

"I received a letter the other day from a major league owner on that subject," Cobb continued. "And some of the problems he has would surprise you. He says that it's just impossible to get players to concentrate on baseball."

The 68-year-old Cobb, the most fierce competitor the game ever produced, believes modern players are entirely too friendly. They seldom knock each other, on or off the diamond.

One of the players attracting Cobb's attention this season is ex-Cracker Dick Donovan. He likes the aggressive pitching tactics of the sensational Chicago White Sox rookie.

Cobb came to Atlanta from San Francisco and is headed for Cooperstown, N.Y., where he'll attend the annual Hall of Fame game.

It will be his third visit to the baseball shrine, where the legendary Ty Cobb is one of the major attractions. —OUTLAR

On-Again, Off-Again Swaps-Nashua Now On for Keeps, and $100,000

CHICAGO, July 20 (AP)—American racing's all-star event — a match duel between Swaps and Nashua at a mile and a quarter — was set today for Washington Park on Aug. 31, with the winner to grab $100,000.

The match race between turf-dom's 3-year-old stars was announced today by Benjamin F. Lindheimer, director of both Washington Park and Arlington Park, after he had conferred with Rex Ellsworth, owner of Swaps, and William Woodward Jr., owner of Nashua.

Swaps is undefeated as a 3-year-old. Nashua's only loss came when he was distanced by Swaps in the Kentucky Derby.

Nashua made a successful bow to Chicago racing circles last Saturday when he won the $148,500 Arlington Classic. He then was shipped immediately back to Saratoga Springs, N. Y., for what Woodward called "a much-deserved vacation."

Lindheimer said that in addition to the $100,000 cash to the winner, the winning owner will receive a gold cup and special awards will go to the winning jockey and trainer.

The match between Swaps and Classic winner Nashua also will match Willie Shoemaker, currently America's leading rider, up on Swaps, and veteran jockey Eddie Arcaro, who piloted Nashua to a close victory over Traffic Judge Saturday.

Henry Loses, Neely Wins in Western Net

Special to The Constitution

CHAMPAIGN, Ill., July 20—Crawford Henry of Atlanta was one of four seeded players knocked out of contention here Wednesday in the Western Junior and Boys tennis championships, but in his case, at least, he was not upset.

Henry bowed to the top foreign seeded star, Juan Jose of Manila, the Philippine champ, 4-6, 6-3, 6-4.

In the boys singles, Ned Neely of Atlanta seeded No. 2, advanced to the quarter-finals without trouble, subduing Tom Elliott of St. Petersburg, Fla., 6-0, 6-2.

In doubles play the Atlanta combination of Mike Neely and Art Howell bowed to Ken Lang, Richmond, Calif. and Junior Hoggs, Berkeley, Calif., 6-1, 3-6, 6-2. Ned Neely and Earl Buchholz of St. Louis, defending boys doubles champions, won by default.

Henry combined with Art Andrew of Iowa City, Ia., to reach the quarter-finals of the junior doubles by downing Chris Crawford of Oakland, Calif., and Vandy Chatie of Glencoe, Ill., 6-4, 7-5.

WHAT MAKES DICK TICK?

WHEN RICHARDS BLEW STACK, DONOVAN HAD HIM IN THE BAG

(This is the second in a series of three articles written exclusively for The Constitution by James C. Mullen, baseball writer for the Chicago Sun-Times, on Dick Donovan, former Atlanta Cracker hurler, now the ace of the Chicago White Sox pitching staff.)

By JAMES C. MULLEN
Chicago Sun-Times Sports Writer

CHICAGO, July 20—Dick Donovan, White Sox right-hander, was on the mound. . . . The Orioles had just scored a run in the seventh off Jack Harshman to tie the score at 4-4, and the Chicagoans needed a superb relief stint to stem the tide.

Donovan, who blossomed into a winning pitcher at Atlanta last season, adjusted his cap, tugged at his pants, hitched his belt and then picked up the resin bag. He waited for what seemed an eternity before admitting to the Comiskey Park crowd that Gus Triandos, the Baltimore strong man, was in the batter's box.

Then he squatted in his unique pre-warmup stance again, suddenly turned around and picked up the resin bag again. Baltimore's manager, Paul Richards, stormed out of the visitor's dugout, protesting to the umpire that Donovan's annoying habit of picking up the resin bag was just a gimmick to delay the game. The more Richards jawed, the more resin Donovan used.

The incident proved that Donovan, who had "failed" to make the major league grade four times with the Braves and once with the Tigers is a perfectionist. If he can help beat down the opposition by annoying them, then that's what he does.

But don't get the idea that Donovan must rely on gimmicks to win in the American League. His record of 13-2, the best in the league percentage-wise, disproves that. And so will Sherman Lollar, veteran White Sox catcher.

"I didn't think he could win until I saw that he could turn his fast ball and make it break in on a righthanded hitter," Lollar says. "Previous to that, everything I saw—his curve and slider—broke away from a right-hander, and they'd soon catch up with him if he didn't have a variation."

The amazing success that Donovan is enjoying is the climax of a career jammed with frustration and disappointment.

Donovan, a native of Quincy, Mass., a Boston suburb, was signed out of North Quincy High to a Braves' farm contract. He began his career in Fort Lauderdale, Fla., in 1947 and made stops at Evansville, Milwaukee, then in the American Association, and Hartford.

The tall determined righthander got his first shot at the majors in 1950 when the Braves took him to spring camp. He didn't make it that year or for the next three. Then the Braves released their shackles and Detroit picked him up on a look-see basis. The Tigers took him to camp in 1954, gave him a half-hearted chance and on deadline day he was back at Atlanta.

"You could say the Braves liked me," he laughed, "but not well enough to use me. I can honestly say I didn't get a fair trial in spite of the fact they took me to camp four straight years. You can't show what you've got by warming up in the bullpen. In those five big league trials, I pitched a total of only 63 innings.

"I think the 1948 season was the turning point in my career," Donovan recalled. "I went to camp with the Braves, but the routine was a little different. They gave me a quick brush, worked me only six innings in the spring and I never threw a pitch after the season opened.

"I asked permission to make a deal for myself and John Quinn (Braves' General Manager) finally said to go ahead and try. I contacted Frank Lane of the Sox, Hank Greenberg of the Indians, Clark Griffith at Washington and Birdie Tebbetts, then at Indianapolis. After hemming and hawing Quinn told me it was impossible to make a deal so they cut my salary (from $250 to $175) and sent me to Hartford.

"I refused to report, but later did just to stay in the game. Then when they refused to trade me again in 1953, I was about ready to chuck the whole thing and quit the game when I got a call from Gene Mauch, then Atlanta manager, to come down there.

"It turned out to be the best thing that ever happened to me. It brought me together with Earl Mann (Atlanta owner) and Whitlow Wyatt, who taught me how to throw a slider, a pitch that made a star out of him a few years ago, and I hope will do the same for me.

"Atlanta is about the finest town I've ever worked in, but you can say I hope to be around Chicago for a long time to come," he said.

Barred Managers Promised Hearing

Condensed From Constitution Wire Reports

Four suspended fight managers will be given a hearing by the New York State Athletic Commission at an early date to answer written charges that will be filed within "a few days."

Julius Helfand, chairman of the commission, said Wednesday both sides would be heard and a speedy determination would be made.

The four managers, suspended for refusing to testify at the investigation of the Boxing Guild of New York, are Charley Bauer, Cus D'Amato, Bobby Melnick and Bobby Nelson.

The investigation of guild activities was re-opened by Helfand who questioned Joe Arata, former promoter at Eastern Parkway Arena in Brooklyn. Arata said his TV contract called for a maximum payment of $12,150 from a network (ABC) and the guild imposed a minimum TV fee of $2,900 for each main event fighter. Arata said he complained but was told by the guild "take it or leave it."

World featherweight champion Sandy Saddler lost a 10-round decision in Manila, to Filipino Flash Elorde because he butted held and hit with his elbows Wednesday night.

BASEBALL: Famed former Philadelphia Athletic baseball players joined in honoring 92-year-old Connie Mack in Kansas City Wednesday night for a "Hall of Fame" dinner dedicated to the late Eddie Collins and other all-time Athletic greats in person including Mickey Cochrane, Lefty Grove, Jack Barry, Frank Baker, Al Simmons, Mule Haas and Bing Miller. . . . Milton Smith, Negro third base star for San Diego in the Pacific Coast league, will join slipping Cincinnati Redlegs Thursday. . . . Commissioner Ford Frick will visit with minor league president George Trautman Thursday in Beaumont for the 15th All-Star game of the Texas League and a meeting of the league's directors. . . . Charleston, W. Va. of the American Association sold catcher Ross Grimsley to the Cincinnati Redlegs for cash and an option on Ralph Birkofer, right handed pitcher now with Havana of the International league.

Gerry Coleman, New York Yankee infielder who was hospitalized Tuesday night with a brain concussion from a pitched ball in the Chicago game, was "in good shape" Wednesday night and had no fracture as earlier reported. . . . The Pittsburgh Pirates recalled pitcher-outfielder Dick Hall from Lincoln, Neb., of the Class A Western League. . . . The Chicago Cubs optioned last year's Texas League pitcher-of-the-year, John Andre, back to Shreveport of that league and recalled Bill Tremel from the Sports.]

TENNIS: Grant Golden, army corporal who flew from Japan for the Pennsylvania Lawn Tennis championships, upset Wimbledon runner-up Kurt Nielsen, 14-12, 18-16 in the third round. Louise Brough, Barbara Breit, Althea Gibson and Janet Hoppe entered women's semi-finals. Vic Seixas, Herb Flam, Sidney Schwartz, Tony Trabert and Ham Richardson also entered quarter-final play with wins.

RACING: Hasty House Farms' Pintan came from far behind in the stretch to win the $61,600 Equipoise mile before 19,647 fans at Arlington Park. Second was Reverie Knoll Farms' Smoke Screen and third was the early pacesetter, Maine Chance Farms' Jet Action, the 5-2 favorite.

Boston Doge, sprint specialist making his first start since his lone defeat in the Swift Stakes last April 30, breezed to a length and a half victory in Rockingham Park's $5,000 special.

BOATING IN GEORGIA

WATER SKIING SIMPLE AND SAFE IF RULES ARE FOLLOWED

By BILL ALLEN

In this last in a series of Georgia Boating articles, I'd like to touch on several things that are not classifiable under aforementioned headings: water skiing, boat racing and navigating aids.

Bill Allen

Water skiing, though anathema to many fishermen, is as healthful and enjoyable an enterprise as can be taken up by a family. And, when one in a family takes up skiing, the whole household usually does.

To start, you really need a 25-horsepower motor and a 53-inch beam planing boat, but with at least three makes of 10-horsepower motors and a light, 14-foot aluminum boat, folks under 120 pounds can ski very well.

It is best to learn with at least a 25-horse outfit, though. If you're teaching another to ski, require them to wear life preserver, first of all, no matter who they are.

The tow rope is a standard 75 foot manila hemp deal and the skis are made in these categories: for 50-120 pounds, five feet, six inches long; for 120-160 pounders, five feet, nine inches long, and for 190 to 225 pounds, six feet, three inches long.

NO BEGINNER SHOULD TRY THIS ON SKIS

Kathy Darlyn and Bobby Hiers Are World Champions

These specifications are very important. For instance, you can pull four girls weighing an average of 120 pounds on four pair of 5-6 skis, with a 25-horse outfit, but you cannot get started with two 200-pound men on two pairs of skis.

The skier starts in a squatting position and as the boat moves away, tightening the towline, the skier points the ski out of the water and leans back, then says "hit it!" when the line is taut and he is set. The motor is revved up and then modulated when the skier is seaborne.

That's all there is to it, but a very simple book of instructions is available free at any sporting goods store, or from the Evinrude Foundation, Milwaukee, Wis.

There are five MUSTS for water ski towboats: Give other boats and obstacles wide berth. Keep eyes front all the time except for a quick, occasional backward glance at the skier; with the new "whispering" motors, there's plenty of easy communication between you and the skier. Approach fallen skiers at idling speed, always. Be sure that your motor is in neutral when taking a skier into the boat, or shut off if it has no gearshift. And, don't be a cowboy. Skiing is international sport and not a sideshow. There's no fun in going around splattering your family and friends against stumps, docks and seawalls.

The Atlanta Boat Club, organized in 1946, is the center of boat racing activity in this section. One of 34 clubs in six southern states forming the Southeastern Boating Association, they have 80 families with 16 fulltime racing enthusiasts.

In 10 years, they have never had an accident or injury to a member. Which speaks well of the things learned in racing "hot" motors. They race mostly

Their next races, incidentally, are Sept. 4, Sunday before Labor Day at Allatoona, directly behind B. Lloyd's on the four-lane highway, and on Lake Sinclair, on Labor Day.

To clear up something that appeared in article number three of this series, the Treasury Department's Coast Guard manual for inland and intercoastal waterways provides: Sec. 25-1-2 (b).

"Every motorboat must carry a combined lantern or light on the fore part of the vessel and lower than the white aft light, that will show green to starboard and red to port to throw light ahead to two points abaft the beam on each side."

Finally, for navigating material The Constitution can offer you free the Guide to Georgia Lakes, which include maps of the state's larger 15 inland impoundments, including road routes to reach them. Just drop a postcard to this column.

Maps of the seacoast are available from the Coast Guard, and Goedetic Survey, Washington, D.C. Georgia's coast is on two big plats, from Tybee to Doboy Sound on one and from Doboy to Fernandina on the other.

Snead Fires Hot 66, Sets Pace in PGA

Putts Fall for the Slammer; Riegel, Ford, Burke Card 67

By HUGH FULLERTON JR.

DETROIT, July 20 (AP)—Sam Snead snatched the qualifying lead in the PGA championships today then chuckled: "I holed more putts today than I have in five tournaments."

Jackie Burke Sam Snead

It was a familiar story as the White Sulphur Springs, W. Va., slammer, a three-time winner of the PGA title and twice medalist, fired a five-under-par 34-32—66 to lead the way after the first 18 holes of the 36-hole qualifying test.

Sam came out of his troubles today on the trouble-free 6,701-yard, par 35-36—71 Meadowbrook course and raced in to take a one-stroke lead over three players who appeared to have it all wrapped up for the day.

Skee Riegel, 1947 U.S. amateur champion who now is a "home" pro at Ithan, Pa., and touring pros Doug Ford and Jackie Burke, both of whom register from Kiamesha Lake, N.Y., all had shot 67s. Riegel and Ford were making their first appearances in the PGA championship, which is restricted to golfers who have been members of the organization for five years.

Another stroke back at 68 came two more of the stay-at-home golfers who make up the bulk of the PGA membership — English-born Errie Ball of Oak Park, Ill., and 36-year-old Don Fairfield of Casey, Illinois.

A whole flock of 69s and 70s turned up on the scoreboard as the pick of the club and touring pros attacked the kind of course they like to play on. Meadowbrook hasn't been toughened up noticeably for the tournament.

Snead, using a putter he bought after his arrival here and an altered putting stroke, had eight one-putt greens.

Snead had only one birdie on the front nine, dropping a short putt on the seventh hole. Coming back he rolled in a pair of good ones for birdies on the 10th and 11th.

There'll be another qualifying round tomorrow, of course, and today's scores indicated the PGA qualifying record may be in for a beating. The record for 36 holes is 134, held jointly by Jim Ferrier and Skip Alexander.

The leaders:
Sam Snead, 34-32—66; Doug Ford, 35-32—67; Jack Burke, 33-34—67; Skee Riegel, 32-35—67; Don Fairfield, 35-33—68; Errie Ball, 33-35—68; Lew Worsham, 35-34—69; Eric Monti, 34-35—69; Ed Oliver, 35-34—69; Jerry Barber, 35-34—69; Guy Paulsen, 36-33—69; Cary Middlecoff, 34-35—69; Tommy Bolt, 35-34—69; Shelley Mayfield, 38-32—70; Gus Salerno, 36-34—70; Dale Andresson, 35-35—70; Eddie Joseph, 35-35—70; Buck White, 35-36—71; Dick Lundahl, 37-34—71; Johnny Palmer, 36-35—71; Marty Furgol, 35-36—71; Mike Pavella, 35-36—71; John Serafin, 36-35—71; Ted Kroll, 36-35—71; Ed Furgol, 35-36—71; Wally Ulrich, 35-36—71; Chick Harbert, 34-37—71.

Georgia Open at Coosa Winds Up Tourney Year

State's Best in Carrollton Field; Albany, Valdosta Meets Upcoming

By BERT PRATHER

The Georgia Open, last of the state's championship tournaments on the '55 calendar, will be staged Aug. 26-28 at Rome's Coosa Country Club.

Sponsored by Georgia Professional Golfers' Association members, the tournament in open to amateurs, PGA and non-PGA pros. The field usually runs around 100, but is expected to reach a record number this time.

Carrollton's Sunset Hills Country Club will be the gathering place for Georgia's golfers this weekend. The club's annual amateur invitational has drawn such capable golfers as Southern Intercollegiate champ Lester Kelly of Atlanta; Doug Sanders of Cedartown, former Southeastern Amateur and National Jaycee Junior champion; Atlanta's Tommy Mathews, the Griffin Invitation winner, and many others.

Qualifying runs through Friday. The championship proper is scheduled for Saturday and Sunday over the 54-hole medal play distance.

Next on the tournament schedule will be the Radium Invitation at Albany, Aug. 3-7, and the State Jaycee Junior at Valdosta Century Club, Aug. 2-4.

Winder's Stowe Rips Past Dahlonega, 11-6

Toccoa, Buford Advance; Columbus Ousts Cordele, 4-3

By MICKEY LOGUE

Larry Stowe, who's equally proficient at either end of the firing line, led home-standing Winder over Dahlonega, 11-6, in Ninth District Legion baseball action Wednesday.

Stowe slapped three doubles and a single to plate six runs as his batting contribution, and fanned four in scattering six hits for his mound effort.

In other District 9 scraps, Toccoa routed Cornelia, 19-1, and Buford blanked Statham, 5-0.

Curtis Wiliams had 5-for-5 and four RBI to head the Toccoa uprising. Tommy Raines whiffed nine in two-hitting Statham.

Frank Morrow turned in a five-hitter as Columbus eased Cordele out of Third District contention, 4-3. The winning hits were contributed in twos by Arthur Knight, Homer Shellnutt and Mickey Carmack.

Post One and the DeKalb Barons, whose game was suspended by rain at Glenn Field, will resume play Thursday at Chamblee High School diamond at 4 p.m.

Winner of Thursday's games will meet DeKalb Legionnaires for the title. The unbeaten Legionnaires hold victories over the other clubs in the double-elimination tournament. State Director Dorris Holt failed to uphold a Post One protest against the Legionnaires.

Ninth District's schedule is: Commerce vs. winner of McCaysville and Toccoa at 4 p.m.; Statham vs. Dahlonega at 6:30 and Buford vs. Winder at 8:45. Columbus meets Americus in Americus.

Bill Terry's Game Formula: Burst Majors' 'Monopoly'

By BILL ALLEN

New York Giant Hall of Famer and South Atlantic league president alighted in Atlanta for an auto dealers' meeting on his way to the Cooperstown, N.Y. Shrine for induction of Dazzy Vance, et al, and delivered his prescription for the varied ailments of organized baseball:

"Go back to the old days of Mister (Kennesaw Mountain) Landis when a major league club could have only 40 men under contract."

That would re-supply the elusive quality that so many people say the game has lost in the big leagues and minor leagues alike, Ol' Memphis Bill said.

Harking back to 1915 when he belonged to Atlanta, he said: "Somebody made money, trading around with me. In later years, I offered $45,000 for Willard Marshall to the Cracker management, and was refused, but bought him later. I bought Connie Ryan for $25,000 and he was a valuable property. Independents could make money in the old days.

"They could give the towns good ball clubs, too. Now, they can't buy or sell on the free market, because of all the agreements within agreements, and they have to take what they get.

"Plenty of those major league teams, one or two in particular, have 24-hour recall on from 300 to 400 players.

"If they went back to the old 40-player rule and broke down minor league ties, I'd guarantee a good return on any club stockholder's money, in spite of radio, television or anything else. Fear of all that stuff is bunk," he concluded.

He is "very proud" of the South Atlantic League and his job which he takes very seriously. He said he will be working from reports on a decision in the Savannah - Montgomery ruckus last weekend all during his trip to New York.

Mizell Pitches Short No-Hitter

Ft. Mac's Vinegar Bend Mizell fired a five-inning, 9-0 no-hitter against Ft. Benning Wednesday afternoon at Ft. McPherson before rain halted the game.

Mizell fanned eight in notching his 12th consecutive victory, ninth shutout and Ft. Mac's 19th straight win.

Taylor Phillips (13-0) will be on the mound when Ft. Mac launches a two-game series with Camp Gordon Thursday at Ft. McPherson.

IN BABE RUTH PLAY

Ferguson, Wells Shine As Buckhead Rolls, 4-1

Buckhead tumbled Glenwood Hills, 4-1, in the state Babe Ruth League tournament opener at East Point's Sumner Park while Wednesday's rains waited.

Then the showers came, washing out 6 and 8 p.m. games matching Toccoa and Bremen, Moultrie and Gainesville.

The rains could have come earlier, for John Ferguson settled it in the opening frame with a three-run homer for the defending champions. After that it was up to hurler Harold Wells, who fanned five Glenwood Hills batters while giving up four hits.

If wet weather keeps away, Toccoa and Bremen will go Thursday at 10 a.m., Moultrie and Gainesville at 4 p.m., Buckhead and Decatur at 6, and Tri-County and Tri-City at 8.

Ransom To Head LL Tourney

J. Walter (Buck) Ransom of Rome has been appointed tournament director for the Region 5 Little League baseball playoffs which will pit eight state champions in Rome Aug. 15-18.

Ransom had been serving as assistant director. In announcing the change in Williamsport, Pa., Peter J. McGovern, president of Little League, said the appointment had been recommended by John P. Braud of Decatur, Region 5, director.

Braud had been serving in the dual capacity of tournament and regional director since January. "The appointment will not only benefit the Little League program throughout the Southeast, but will relieve Mr. Braud of some volunteer duties throughout the eight state area," McGovern said.

Alabama, Georgia, Florida, Kentucky, Mississippi, North Carolina, South Carolina and Tennessee will be represented at Rome. Winner will compete in the Little League World Series at Williamsport, Pa., Aug. 23-26.

While in Georgia, visiting Little Leaguers will be guests of the Chamber of Commerce, Little Leagues and City of Rome. Boys and their managers will be housed and fed at Shorter College.

State playoff sites are Auburn, Ala.; Orlando, Fla.; Athens, Ga.; Lexington, Ky.; Laurel Miss.; Charlotte, N.C., and Nashville, Tenn. State tournaments must be completed before Aug. 13.

Girl Softball Players Reported Beaten

DETROIT, July 20 (AP)—Reports that members of a girl's softball team beat teammates with dog chains when they failed to show up for games were being investigated today.

Police said five girls 14 to 16 were apparently involved in the attempts to terrorize their teammates.

One girl reportedly suffered a black eye and bruises on her back. Officers said others were hurt too but it was not known how seriously because they did not tell their parents.

Police said the team involved, the Head Hunters, had to forfeit several games when some of their players did not show up. Girls who came to the games became angry, officers said, went to their teammates' homes and challenged the girls to fight. Those who came out were beaten.

Officers said they learned of the beatings through neighborhood gossip.

Army Says Farewell To Stevens

WASHINGTON, July 20 (AP)—The Army said farewell to Secretary Robert T. Stevens today with a parade, and then prepared to welcome Wilber M. Brucker as its new civilian chief.

Stevens took his final salute from the Army he has served for two and one-half years at a late afternoon parade and review at Ft. Myer, Va. Troops of the 3rd Regiment rendered the final honors and a squadron of Army helicopters flew over in tight formation.

Before the ceremony Stevens received the last of a series of surprise honors. The latest was a Medal of Freedom which Secretary of Defense Wilson pinned on Stevens while they were standing on the parade reviewing platform.

Wilson said Stevens "contributed immeasurably in the settlement of hostilities in Korea," aided Korea in its rebuilding problems and did much toward negotiating the mutual security pact with that war-torn nation.

Stevens said before signing his last Army paper that he leaves with the feeling that he can "hold his chin up." He said nothing about his tempestuous battle royal with Sen. McCarthy (R-Wis) last year.

Stevens is going now to his Montana ranch. He said he will "sit and think" there for a while before gravitating back into the textile industry.

Strauss Pleads for Cash To Prevent Atom Cuts

WASHINGTON, July 20 (AP)—Chairman Lewis L. Strauss of the Atomic Energy Commission said today that without more money than Congress has so far voted his agency will have to cut production of atomic weapons materials.

Development of reactors for military and civilian use also would suffer, he said.

Strauss appeared before the Senate Appropriations Committee to ask restoration of $101 million of AEC operating funds chopped from a measure already enacted.

The commission did not ask for restoration of the 21 million it originally requested for President Eisenhower's atomic demonstration ship. Strauss noted that Congress had so far refused to authorize the project.

But the chairman insisted additional funds were essential for agency operations in the next year.

Actually, he requested an increase of $107,223,000, but Sen. Anderson (D-NM) said he believed the AEC could get along with 101 million.

IKE BLASTS SLASH

In passing a regular money bill last week, Congress cut 144 million below Eisenhower's request for AEC. The President, in signing the bill, declared the reduction could seriously hamper the commission.

Strauss said today, "The programs which we will have to cut primarily are the production of weapon materials and the development of reactors for both military and civilian uses." He added:

"We must honor our contractual obligations to pay for uranium scheduled to be delivered. We could scarcely stop fabricating weapons from materials on hand.

"Approximately 93 per cent of the operating budget is for the procurment of uranium, the processing of uranium into weapons materials, the development and fabrication of weapons, and the development of reactors."

The voe was 11-5 against a move to send a bill incorporating the project to the Senate floor.

$4.2 Billion Deficit Added In Fiscal '55

WASHINGTON, July 20 (AP)—The government ran almost $4,200,000,000 into the red in the year ended June 30. This was a deficit more than a billion dollars bigger than in the year before but 300 million smaller than expected.

The Treasury and the Budget Bureau reported that "greater prosperity," reflected in rising income tax payments, sent federal revenues about $1,300,000,000 higher than President Eisenhower's January forecast.

HOPES INCREASED

This heightened hopes for a sharp reduction—or even possibly the elimination—of the estimated $2,400,000,000 deficit for fiscal 1956, which began 20 days ago. Not only has consumer income continued to climb, but taxable corporation profits are nearing record levels.

However, mounting farm surpluses may be the fiscal villain in the year ahead, as they were in the past year. Crop price supports, today's statement revealed, exceeded by more than a billion dollars the estimate which Eisenhower sent to Congress six months ago.

FISCAL PICTURE

The outdated presidential estimate was 59 billion dollars in receipts, 63½ billion in expenditures, and 4½ billion in red ink.

The deficit for fiscal 1954 was $3,100,000,000 and in fiscal 1953, when Korean War spending remained high, $9,400,000,000.

Earthquake Jars Ecuador Capital

QUITO, Ecuador, July 20 (AP)—A strong earthquake shook this Ecuadorean capital at 4:03 p.m. EST today. It caused some alarm. The National Telegraph Dept. said a church and a school in Otavalo, 35 miles north of Quito, were damaged.

Though the quake was reported felt through the central mountainous region of north Ecuador, there were no immediate reports of damage elsewhere or of any casualties.

Big 4 Hands Woes to Foreign Chiefs; Ike Suggests Another German Parley

pursue the search for some common ground between East and West.

Comparing the conference of the four foreign ministers in Berlin in 1954 with that of the heads of government here, a French official said there was exactly the same landscape in both cases except that in Berlin it had been shrouded in cloud and rain while in Geneva the sun shone.

There are many even among hardened diplomats, who try to believe that this difference may prove important, that the more gentlemanly manner and the absence of accusations of bad faith may mean something for European security eventually.

This seems to be the hope of President Eisenhower who contributed much of the sunshine to a hitherto grim landscape, though he brought no proposed solution of the problems of co-existence, as both of his Western colleagues did.

TALKS WITH SOVIETS

The President said today that he had talked with every member of the Soviet delegation here and was profoundly convinced that all sincerely desire peace, as he did. This was considered a remarkable statement from a leader who only a short while ago demanded proofs of Soviet sincerity before agreeing to a conference like the present one.

Instead of holding back skeptically from new negotiations, the President now seems eager to miss no chance to build a bridge, as he expressed it, between the Communist and the free worlds.

He agreed the bridge could hardly be built this week in Geneva, but he wanted the foreign ministers to try to discover how to build it.

There were three separate proposals or groups of proposals to this end. One came from French Premier Faure, another from British Prime Minister Eden, the third from Soviet Premier Bulganin.

Faure suggested a general security system including a united Germany and any other states desiring to enter it. Meanwhile, the Western powers would give security guarantees to the Soviet Union and agree that a united Germany would have no greater armed power than Western Germany is now authorized to have.

Eden would begin by a security pact among the four powers represented here and a united Germany, by which all would agree to resist any aggressor, to this he would add an agreement limiting the forces on each side in Germany and in neighboring countries and establish a demilitarized zone between East and West. He said today he would be willing to extend the pact to countries other than the five he first proposed as members.

SOVIET SUBMITS PLAN

In contrast to the two Western plans, which presuppose a united Germany, the Soviet plan submitted today is on the two existing German states, both of which would be members of the proposed security system.

All European states and the United States would be admitted to the proposed Soviet security system which would entail agreements to adhere to the United Nations charter and to consider an attack on any member as an attack on all. The new system would not immediately impair existing treaties—that is the Atlantic alliance and the Western European—but at some undetermined date they would terminate, as would their counterpart, the Warsaw pact.

The three Western powers again emphasized today that German unity was a factor for security and German disunity a factor for insecurity. They were fully agreed that the West could make no pact with Moscow for European security until it was sure of getting the union of Germany.

But discussion of reductions of existing armaments were not tied so absolutely to an accord on the unification of Germany, and the U.S. view was such that discussion perhaps offered the only promising field for future negotiation.

Washington has not been eager to draft plans for security or arms reduction at this stage and some U.S. officials were disappointed that Faure and Eden had done so. The administration preferred to compare ideas rather than plans at this conference in the hope of turning up some new ideas. But this hope was not notably fulfilled and American officials were reported to be not very sanguine of finding new solutions for the German problem.

Secretary of State Dulles now believes Moscow clearly desires to establish friendly relations with the West and particularly the United States. He asked Foreign Minister Molotov today to define the security he sought in concrete terms but received no answer beyond the proposed treaty on security.

EDEN OFFERS TOPICS

After Eisenhower had proposed drafting directives for a foreign ministers' conference on German unification and security, Eden elaborated the proposal by suggesting four specific topics as a basis of study by the ministers. They were:

1. Unification of Germany, having regard to the security of all concerned.
2. A security pact for Europe or part of Europe.
3. The limitation and inspection of forces and armaments in Germany and countries neighboring Germany.
4. The possibility of creating a demilitarized area.

It was announced that the chiefs had agreed to this suggestion, but the British appeared uncertain tonight that they had agreed.

THE GABLES AFTER THE ELOPEMENT—ENCINO, Calif., July 20—Clark Gable and Kay Williams Spreckels, Hollywood's most prominent newlyweds, face news cameras today for the first time since they eloped to Minden, Nev., nine days ago. They said they plan to make their home at Gable's ranch here and at a new house in Palm Springs.

by persons "looking for excitement," who had "no intention of doing anything."

Most of the trouble seemed to arise, Pope said, from the attitude of three new police officers whom members of council said they hired to keep better order in the town. Pope said statements indicated the new officers irritated "a certain group" by "bragging about how they would clean up the town when they should have just done it."

Pope said he does feel officers should make more arrests than they have in the past to stop excessive speeding and public drunkenness. The mayor should cooperate with the council by levying heavier fines in many cases, the foreman added.

Pope said he felt most of the trouble came from "a young crowd" in Tallapoosa.

WATER FLOODS HALL
Kennedy St., NW, Apartment

Rain, Hail Hit City; Lad in Creek Saved

White, 547 Kennedy St., NW, was damaged by water. Apartments in the area were flooded.

A newly installed roof over the City Hall's aldermanic chamber leaked, with water covering the floor and benches near the entrance.

Former motorcycle racer Ted Edwards, 48, of 3445 Sylvan Rd., Hapeville, suffered a neck injury in an auto accident in the 400 block of Stewart avenue, SW, police said.

A crash at Crew and Georgia avenue, SW, hospitalized Gladys Music, 14, of 709 Primrose St., SE, with lacerations and bruises. Mary Katherine Waits, 6, of 553 Washington St., SW, was treated for injuries to the head and back after being struck by a car in front of her home, policemen reported.

Nettie Mae Johnson, 37, of Lilburn, and Jessie Lee Day, 25, of 241 Luckie St., NW, were also injured.

Continued hot weather was forecast for the Atlanta area Thursday and Friday, with highs of 90 and lows of 72 predicted both days. Wednesday's high was 88 and the low was 72.

fully occupied. (Atlanta is believed to already have most of the necessary codes and ordinances.)

2. A COMPREHENSIVE COMMUNITY PLAN. Such a plan must include proposals for land use, thoroughfares, community facilities and public improvements. (Atlanta is believed to have such plans in the "Now—for Tomorrow" proposals of the Metropolitan Planning Commission.)

3. NEIGHBORHOOD ANALYSES—The objective of such analyses is to identify the extent, intensity and location of blight so as to plan for healthy neighborhoods. (Some studies along these lines already have been made by the Metropolitan Planning Commission, the Atlanta Housing Authoriyt and private developers.)

4. ADMINISTRATIVE ORGANIZATIONS. This objective is to firmly establish administrative responsibility and capacity for enforcing codes and ordinances. (Atlanta's city government already has most of the departments and powers needed.)

5. FINANCING. This is a big problem. Its objective is to develop means of meeting the financial obligation involved in carrying out urban renewal activities. Although the federal government will pay two-thirds of the net cost, the locality must bear its one-third share. In some instances part of the city's cost can be paid in public improvements in the renewal areas.

6. HOUSING FOR DISPLACED FAMILIES. The objective is to facilitate the rehousing, in decent, safe, and sanitary accommodations, of families displaced by governmental action. The city must show that adequate housing will be provided, either in public or private projects, for the displaced persons.

7. CITIZEN PARTICIPATION. Required is citizen support on a community-wide and neighborhood basis and in the areas selected for renewal, with minority group participation included.

The "workable program" could be developed by the Atlanta-Fulton County Planning Board, now studying the problem, or by the Metropolitan Planning Commission or some other agency of government.

The city government must then decide what specific areas it wants to redevelop and appoint the actual redevelopment agency to carry out the detailed studies and actual work. Project reports and plans are submitted to the HHFA and applications made for federal loans and grants subject to HHFA aproval.

Hand Asks Whitman Links Probed about $10,000 more, Shaw's records showed.

The purchasing director said all the two firms' sales to the state were on a competitive bidding basis.

Harriman R. Phillips, listed as an incorporator of the Phillips company, told newsmen that Whitman bought his interest in the firm several months ago.

While he said he had no particular people or firms in mind, Atlanta's Sen. G. Everett Millican declared today that he is "opposed to any firm's being organized for the purpose of getting state business." He added that he does not believe any state official on a regular salary should be allowed to do business with the state.

Speaking from his home at Pelham, Hand commented: "I think it should be turned over to the legislative economy committee and let them make an investigation of Phillips Sales Co. and Park Supply Co. and see whether he (Whitman) has used the School Building Authority for personal gain."

Hand was drawn into the controversy after Ben Wiggins, executive secretary to Gov. Marvin Griffin, said he sees no difference between Whitman's engaging in business with the state and Hand's. He said an agency headed by Hand handled part of the ports authority's insurance previously. Hand acknowledged this and said he had been in business for more than 50 years and the state business came without solicitation on his part.

Little Tyke, TV, Film Lioness, No Meat Lover, Dies

AUBURN, Wash., July 20 (AP)—Little Tyke, a star in motion pictures and on television as a lioness which turned up her nose at meat, died today, apparently of indigestion.

Dr. Russell R. Isham, veterinarian, said of the 8-year-old, 500-pound vegetarian it "looked like acute indigestion."

Mr. and Mrs. George Westbeau, who raised Little Tyke from a crippled cub to a huge beast which nuzzled baby chicks and embraced lambs with affection (but no appetite), said their outsized pet showed no previous signs of illness.

14 Pct. of Atlanta, Fulton Taxes Paid

Less than 15 per cent of Atlanta and Fulton County's 1955 taxes have been paid with one-third of the collecting period already past, Tax Commissioner T. E. Suttles said Wednesday.

Suttles said his office has collected $2,775,000 of the city's $16,730,000 tax digest, and $1,707,000 of the county's digest of $11,930,000.

This means that approximately 14 per cent of the taxes due have been paid, he said, although at least 33 per cent of the taxes should have been paid by this time in the collection period.

"It means we're running about true to form. The people will wait till the last," he added.

Deadline for city payments is Aug. 15, and the county deadline is Oct. 15.

The tax commissioner added, however, that tax officials "would appreciate taxpayers coming in now and avoiding a last-minute rush."

The nunmber of Navajo Indians has increased from 7,000 in 1867 to more than 70,000 today.

7 on Small Claims Docket

Seven cases filed with the new small claims division of Fulton Civil Court will be tried Thursday morning in the court's first official session.

The hearings will be presided over by Civil Judge Sam F. Lowe Jr.

The small claims division, which handles cases involving $100 or less, is operating on an experimental basis.

It was established through cooperation of Civil Court officials with local lawyers' organizations.

Judge Lowe said the seven cases which are to be heard are the only ones of 13 filed during the July term to which defenses have been filed by the accused persons.

Industrial Spread Tied To Hearing

By HERMAN HANCOCK

Atlanta's future industrial development may hinge largely on results of a public hearing Thursday to change the zoning on a tract.

Although all property needed for erection of a new, multi-million-dollar plant by Scripto, Inc., has been zoned for industrial use for 20 years, and was bought under that classification, a demand to change it to residential use is up for consideration.

Ald. Hamilton Douglas, chairman of the aldermanic board's zoning committee, has set a hearing on the issue for 2 p.m. Thursday in the aldermanic chamber.

Preparing for the hearing, 200 chairs have been moved from the Municipal Auditorium to the chamber to provide additional seats for the 350 persons expected to attend. A petition, which proponents say has been signed by 2,500 persons residing as far north as Chamblee, asks the rezoning.

The 32-acre tract involved fronts on Piedmont road, NE, at the Southern railway. It was first zoned for industry while it was in Fulton County before the Plan of Improvement became operative in 1952. It was retained for industrial use under the comprehensive land use and zoning survey made by Harland Bartholomew & Associates, St. Louis planning experts.

When Scripto officials announced plans to build a new plant on the site, considerable opposition developed. Ald. Bob Clark of the Eighth Ward offered an ordinance to change the zoning from industrial to single family residence use.

The hearing is on Clark's proposal. Although most city leaders have shied away from becoming involved in the dispute, it was pointed out that under an ordinance passed immediately after adoption of the Bartholomew plan, any owner has the right to develop any property for the use it was zoned prior to the Bartholomew survey, if work is begun by September.

This means that under the "grandfather" clause, Scripto could move to use the property for industry even if the new ordinance is approved. In the meantime, aldermen have ordered city building inspector William R. Wofford to refuse a permit for start of the work.

One alderman who refused to be quoted said a change in the zoning would "be immoral if not actually illegal." He expressed fear that it would set a precedent which might have "serious, adverse affect on Atlanta's future industrial development."

"I think it would put prospective developers on notice that they would have to be sure no opposition would develop or they would have to 'fix' the two aldermen representing the ward in which the improvement was planned," he added.

2 Building Permits

Two permits calling for an outlay of $342,501 were issued Wednesday by building inspector William R. Wofford. One calls for erection of an office building and warehouse costing $254,501 for Grinnell Corp. at 645 Northside Dr., NW. Strother-Barg Co. will do the work.

The other is an $88,000 addition to Fortified Hills Baptist Church, 1711 Bankhead Hwy., NW. A. K. Adams & Co. is the contractor.

Fulton Schools May Not Have To Borrow Cash

There is a possibility of the Fulton County Board of Education not having to borrow funds to pay its expenses at the end of this month, a school official said Wednesday.

J. D. Wootan, administrative assistant to Supt. Paul D. West, said the school system received $77,000 of its 1955 tax revenue Tuesday, and possibly will get more by the end of the month.

The school board has authorized the borrowing of up to $500,000, if necessary, for the school system to pay its expenses while awaiting sufficient tax revenue.

But Wootan said that if the system receives another large quantity during July, "there is a possibility we won't have to borrow any money at all."

UN Council Here To Hear India Student

150 See Showing of Lockheed C130

The turbine-propellor craft was demonstrated for some 150 military leaders, industrialists and newsmen at Dobbins Air Force Base.

The 54-ton airplane leaped from the runway with a heavy load in less than 1,000 feet, made tight turns with its wings banked at 60 degrees, landed in 600 feet and then proceeded to back up with the ease of a passenger car.

Classed as a "medium" transport, the plane has a wingspan of 132 feet, 6 inches and a length of 95 feet, 2 inches. The tail is 38 feet, 3 inches high.

The Air Force ordered the transport for use on short, unprepared landing strips for combat support operations close to front lines.

Maj. Gen. Chester E. McCarty, commander of the 18th Air Force, said scores of the C130s are already on the assembly line at the Marietta plant. The first group of Herculeses will be organized in the 18th Air Force "sometime next year," he said.

The Hercules "will usher in a new era of airlift speed," Gen. McCarty declared. "It will have the advantage of altitude . . . making possible the successful completion of missions which would be stopped by intermediate weather using today's aircraft," he asserted.

Sommerville To Talk On Northside Transit

Robert Sommerville, president of the Atlanta Transit System, will discus the future of transportation service in Sandy Springs and on the Northside at the Sandy Springs Businessmen's Assn. meeting Thursday.

The dinner meeting will be held at 7:30 p.m. at the Hammond Elementary School cafeteria.

2 Men Hunter Here In $10 Motel Holdup

Police Wednesday were searching for two white men riding in a red convertible who reportedly robbed a tourist court clerk of $10.

E. E. Temple, employe of the Pine Grove Tourist Court at 2312 Stewart Ave., SW, said the men signed the register and then produced a gun. He said one of the men struck him before they drove away.

Carolann Vies With 14 Others For Miss U.S.A.

Special to The Constitution

LONG BEACH, Calif., July 20 (AP)—Blond-tressed Carolann Connor of Decatur, Ga., was among 15 candidates here tonight as the U.S.A. phase of the Miss Universe Contest narrowed in preliminary judging.

Carolann, a University of Georgia sophomore, was set to vie with Misses Arkansas, California, Colorado, Florida, Illinois, Nebraska, New Mexico, New York City, New York State, South Carolina, Texas, Vermont, Washington and Wisconsin.

Shapely Margaret Rowe, the 19-year-old Miss England, with the kind of figure sailors whistle at, was voted the most popular girl in the big Sunday parade which was witnessed by half-a-million people.

Lightning Jolts 10 Gordon GIs

AUGUSTA, July 20 (AP)—Ten Camp Gordon soldiers on bivouac were jolted by a lightning bolt early today, but only one was hospitalized.

The bolt struck a communications center manned by a detachment of the Military Police Corps during a heavy thunderstorm before dawn.

'Old-Pal' Solons Argue Integration with Fists

By JOHN D. MORRIS
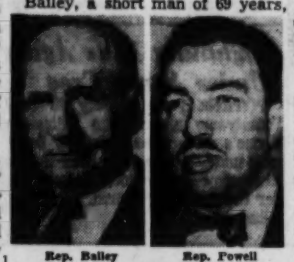
Special to The Atlanta Constitution

WASHINGTON, July 20—Words led to blows—one at any rate—in a congressional committee today as Democratic representatives Adam Clayton Powell of New York and Cleveland M. Bailey of West Virginia clashed over school segregation.

When order had been restored, the House Education and Labor Committee rejected, 17-10, Powell's proposal to bar federal school funds from states and school districts failing to comply with the Supreme Court's decree for racial integration of public schools.

Debate on the issue, according to members present at the closed session, erupted into physical violence when Bailey accused the rangy Negro representative from New York of trying to kill the pending school construction bill by insisting on the anti-segregation amendment.

The charge "lie" was hurled in the ensuing exchange, and the West Virginian leaped up and swung at Powell, witnesses said.



Rep. Bailey

Rep. Powell

Bailey, a short man of 69 years, was reported to have connected with one or more blows that threw Powell, 46, off balance. Chairs were knocked over. Nobody apparently saw the New Yorker try to retaliate.

The two legislators were restrained by other committee members. The chairman, Graham A. Barden (D-NC), restored order after some gavel-banging and an appeal for members to "restrain your passions."

Afterward, neither participant would admit to reporters that the incident had occurred.

"It never happened," Bailey said.

"Cleve Bailey and I smoke cigars together and are old friends," was Powell's comment.

The bill under consideration would authorize $1,600,000,000 in federal aid to states for school construction over the next four years.

The Powell amendment was offered by Stuyvesant Wainwright (R-NY) as the committee prepared to vote, possibly tomorrow, on the bill itself.

No Judo for Ladies; Too Hard To Handle

MERIDEN, Conn., July 20, (AP)—Police Chief Michael B. Carroll today asked the City Board of Public Safety for permission to admit a few women to his police school.

"Some of the ladies tell me they want to learn judo so they can protect themselves," he said.

Mayor Henry D. Altobello vetoed the idea.

AFL, CIO Agree on New Title

WASHINGTON, July 20 (AP)—AFL and CIO leaders resolved a controversy tonight over choosing a name for their proposed new labor federation. They agreed to call it "the American Federation of Labor and Congress of Industrial Organizations."

AFL President George Meany and CIO President Walter Reuther said the agreement on a title was the last major problem in the way toward merging the two labor organizations.

ONLY MINOR DETAILS

They said only minor procedural details remained to be worked out before the merger finally is to be consummated at a series of conventions in New York City in early December.

The AFL, with 10 million members, had wanted to keep the AFL designation for the federation. The CIO, with five million members, insisted on a new name since it contended the merged group was to be a brand new organization.

The compromise, was reached at a closed meeting tonight. When reporters pointed out that the new name would likely pose a problem for newspaper headline writers, Meany laughed and said newspaper names also are often complicated.

CITES PAPER NAMES

He cited the Washington Post and Times Herald and the New York World Telegram and Sun.

"We think the new name for the merged organization is a very happy solution," Reuther said.

Both Meany and Reuther said they were confident that all merger problems now had been cleared away and that nothing would interfere with carrying out of the long-discussed merger idea.

Senate Probe Of Bad Grain Bins Slated

WASHINGTON, July 20 (AP)—The Senate Investigations subcommittee announced today it will start public hearings Friday to explore reports that the government has experienced heavy losses on the purchase of defective and improperly inspected grain bins.

The investigation involves officials in the Agriculture Department which bought the prefabricated bins in 1953 and 1954, and the Navy, which provided the inspectors. The bins are wooden and metal structures to house grain the government acquired in the farm price support program.

The announcement of the hearings came on the heels of a statement by subcommittee Chairman McClellan (D-Ark) denouncing as "inaccurate, irresponsible and without basis in fact" a statement by a Navy official that the inquiry was "being dropped."

Sen. Humphrey (D-Minn) had told the Senate Tuesday he expects the investigation will show "at least a cover-up" has been attempted by the Navy. He said he has evidence that 1,960 defective bins were involved, and that the government has suffered losses amounting to "millions of dollars" on the bins and large quantities of grain stored in them that spilled out on the ground and became rat infested.

Navy To Lay Third Atom Sub Keel at Seawolf Launching

WASHINGTON, July 20 (AP) — When the Navy launches its second atomic-powered submarine Thursday it will at the same time lay the keel of a third nuclear-powered undersea vessel, high Pentagon officials disclosed today.

The Navy has kept secret its plan for the keel laying of the third boat in its atomic-age submarine fleet. It had planned to keep the development a surprise until the last minute.

The submarine Seawolf will be launched at the Groton, Conn., yards of the Electric Boat Division of General Dynamics Corp., just six months after the first nuclear powered submarine, Nautilus was commissioned at the same yards.

The Nautilus already has logged many thousands of miles on its atomic-powered plant. A fourth atomic submarine, planned as a radar picket vessel, also will be assigned to Electric Boat.

Congress has authorized the construction of a total of eight nuclear submarines. One of these will be built at the Mare Island, Calif., Naval Shipyards and another will be built at the Portsmouth, N. H., Naval Shipyards.

The remaining two vessels in the current atomic submarine program have not yet been assigned to specific yards.

Empire State Tower Sways Only Slightly

CommitteeOkays Retired Pay Bill

WASHINGTON, July 20 (AP)—A bill raising to $10,000 the combined pensions and government pay which retired officers may draw has been approved by the Senate Finance Committee.

Under present law, a retired officer who works for the government must choose between his pension and his salary if together they exceed $3,000. The bill increasing the ceiling to $10,000 already has been passed by the House.

Ike's Selectee Disapproved

WASHINGTON, July 20 (AP)—The Senate Commerce Committee today disapproved 9-6 President Eisenhower's nomination of John A. Hall of California as director of locomotive inspection. Hall is serving under a recess appointment.

The committee recommendation now goes to the Senate.

Chairman Magnuson (D-Wash) said Hall, a locomotive engineer himself, was opposed because his appointment broke a long precedent that the director be named from the ranks of government inspectors. The bureau is under the Interstate Commerce Commission.

Magnuson said Hall had the support of his own union, the engineers, but that other railway brotherhoods opposed him.

Emergency Fund Aids Ex-Patients

By YOLANDE GWIN

Or maybe a wheel chair or crutches or braces?

Emergency needs for hundreds of unfortunate patients dismissed from the hospital cannot be filled by the hospital. The patients, not having the means to help themselves, need help from others.

The "others" are the United Church Women of Atlanta and the Christian Council members who, through their joint efforts, have set up a Grady Hospital Emergency Fund.

SELF-CONFIDENCE

"A little goes a long way to restore physical capacities and give self-confidence," said Mrs. Paul W. Brandenburger, chairman of the church women. "It is a wonderful way for missionary societies and Sunday school classes to do their bit.

"Many church groups make monthly contributions and at the same time provide many items which bedside patients need and appreciate. Things such as bedside kits, washcloths, tooth paste and brushes, scuffies, baby clothes, shorts, hose and various other articles."

The work these church women have undertaken to meet these emergencies has the complete cooperation of the Christian Council as a church activity.

"MISSIONARY WORK"

Church women working in groups as well as individuals contribute to this fund. It is, as Mrs. Brandenburger pointed out, "missionary work at home."

"Patients cannot obtain similar services from other agencies," said Miss Nancy Johnson, social service director for Grady Hospital.

"Cases in which services are given range from a gift of elastic stockings to carfare for visits to one of the hospital clinics.

"Help and medical care are needed outside the hospital as well as inside. Requests come to us from doctors, too, who advise the necessary aids for patients after their dismissal. Things like braces, wheelchairs and even teeth."

SPECIAL FUNDS

Although the church women channel their financial gifts to the hospital through their treasurer, Mrs. Fleming Ragsdale, special funds—such as outright gifts from interested individuals or even memorial gifts—find their way to solve a patient's problem.

Miss Johnson told of one case in which a girl suffering from malnutrition gained more than weight because of false teeth.

IKE AND MAMIE WOULD BE HAPPY TO PART WITH A FEW EXTRA POUNDS
President and First Lady Like to Eat, but Must Watch Waistline

By IDA JEAN KAIN

To the President of the United States, I doff my dietitian's cap. In spite of those daily business luncheons and famous stag dinners which send the grand total of calories soaring, Mr. Eisenhower has held the weight line.

It was my privilege to be seated beside the President recently at the Women's National Press Club dinner. Traditionally this is the gala evening when newspaper women put on a rollicking show before a star-studded audience.

Between the vichysoisse and the dessert, the President and I talked of many things, including the philosophy and faith of his parents which has shaped his life. It was a rich and illuminating experience—one that I shall remember always with a warm glow.

PART WITH POUNDS

Like millions of other Americans, the President would be happy to part with a few extra pounds. He eats a light breakfast, not from preference, but to curb calories.

He told me that when he retires to that Gettysburg farm (he didn't say when) he looks forward to once again enjoying a man-size breakfast, for it's his favorite meal.

In the interest of reducing, he'll consider following my diet suggestions, provided I do not cut down on his steaks. Fair enough, Mr. President. Eat the steak but trim off the fat. On the calorie score, fats count more than double.

Here's a rule of thumb: every half ounce of trimmable fat deleted from meat subtracts 100 calories from the total. That can add up to a tidy calorie saving and a trim waist.

COPE WITH CALORIES

Mrs. Eisenhower, too, has to cope with calories galore. The First Lady's diet dilemma was amusingly depicted in one of the skits, set to the tune of "This Ole House." . . . "When I want to become thinner, eating egg white without yolks . . . why I have to eat big dinners . . . with 400 other folks. . . ."

In fact, extra-curricular calories are a bulging problem to all official Washington. Mrs. Earl Warren, wife of the Chief Justice, my other dinner partner that memorable evening, expressed the wish that hostesses wouldn't serve so much food.

So a tip to Washington hostesses—why not come to the aid of both parties by serving food that is not so fattening?

"OUT OF THIS WORLD"

The Press Club play was "Out of this World," the theme being a visit from a newspaper woman from outer space. Venus (On stage portrayed by beautiful Deena Clark) rocketed down to earth and got a scoop on Ike's plans for '56 . . . in the play that is.

When Venus promised to release the news only on another planet, on stage, tall blonde Betty Beale who impersonated Ike, with a big grin, announced, "I'll risk it. I've just GOT to tell somebody!"

At the finale, Elizabeth Carpenter, our press club president, suggested the Chief Executive let us all in on the secret he had whispered to Venus.

Tobe Says

Overblouse Invades Beach, Takes Over Summer Fashions

The overblouse is practically taking over all our fashions this summer. It has even invaded the beach, where the smartest little wraps all seem to be long overblouses in some version or other.

First there are the cotton knit T-shirts—longer and looser this year so that they reach well below the hips.

TO STUDY HORTICULTURE

Georgia Girl Wins Course in England

By ANNIE LOU HARDY

A pretty young Georgian with high scholastic standing, exceptional talent in landscape architecture, and the brand of personal charm that wins friends instantly, will have the opportunity of seeing and studying the famous old gardens of England next year because of it all.

She is Miss Shirley Cooper of St. Simons who has been chosen for an interchange fellowship in horticulture sponsored by the Garden Club of America in conjunction with the British branch of the English Speaking Union.

Two Atlantans, Mrs. Albert E. Thornton and Mrs. Frank A. Player, who are past presidents of the Peachtree Garden Club (a member of the Garden Club of America), were doubtless influential in the selection of the Georgian.

NATIONAL COMMITTEE

Mrs. Thornton is a member of the national committee which makes the appointments for the fellowships, and Mrs. Player serves on the screening committee to interview the candidates.

Other Georgians serving on the screening committee are Hubert Owens, head of the School of Landscape Architecture at the University of Georgia, and Dr. F. E. Johnstone, chairman of the Division of Horticulture at the university.

The award is open to graduate students of horticulture and landscape architecture in the United States and England. In addition to its educational aspect, the strengthening of bonds between the two great English-speaking nations is one of its prime goals.

SCHOLARSHIP

Miss Cooper has been studying for the past two years at the University of Georgia on the Neil Reed Scholarship financed by the Peachtree Garden Club, and will be graduated next year. She is one of six outstanding students to benefit from this foundation in the past eight years.

"First the school records of the chosen candidates are sent to the deans of horticulture at Cornell and the University of California to be passed on," said Mrs. Thornton. "Then the screening committee interviews them on the basis of personality, poise, appearance, etc."

SOUTHERN ZONE

Miss Cooper was chosen from the Southern zone which comprises the states of Georgia, Florida, Tennessee, Alabama, Louisiana, South Carolina and part of Kentucky. Of British extraction, she is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Sidney Cooper who moved to St. Simons from Canada. She inherited her artistic ability from her mother, a gifted artist.

"I went with her to New York to meet the board members of the Garden Club of America and she met all the requirements admirably," said Mrs. Thornton.

"A hands-across-the-sea program could not ask for a better emissary."

2 Atlanta Girls To Attend Council

Miss Faye Peek of Campbell High School and Miss Marie Kleine of Roswell High School will attend the annual meeting of the State 4-H Club Council to be held in Athens July 26-29.

Every county in the state is represented by two girls and 10 boys as delegates to the council meeting.

The keynote of the program is to better train leading 4-H Club members. Delegates will attend different interest groups, tour their selected schools of interest, attend the 50th annual celebration of 4-H Club Work in Georgia and have their "say" in the election of state council officers.

Miss Marx Is Wed at Club Here

The Standard Town and Country Club was transformed into a garden scene last evening for the marriage of Miss Ellen Marx, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. David Marx Jr., to Matthew Robert Rappaport, son of Mr. and Mrs. Isadore M. Rappaport of Baltimore.

The bride's grandfather, Rabbi David Marx, read the marriage service, after which Mr. and Mrs. Marx entertained at a seated dinner at the club.

Mr. Rappaport chose his father as his best man, and serving as his usher-groomsmen were L. G. Sherman Jr. of Atlanta; Irvin Greif Jr., E. Carey Ries, Howard Schloss Jr., Sanford Panitz, Daniel Lowenthal Jr., and Milton H. Miller, all of Baltimore.

The bride was attended by her sister, Mrs. L. G. Sherman Jr., as matron of honor, and Miss Ellen Birk as maid of honor.

The bridesmaids included Mrs. Jerold Muskin of Youngstown, Ohio; Miss Teena Stern, Miss Betty Elsas and Miss Elice Dittler. The bride's small niece, Miss Jane Sherman, was flower girl.

New Arrival

Mr. and Mrs. Charles C. Young of Tucker announce the birth of a son, Charles Colman Jr., on July 15 at Emory Hospital. Mrs. Young is the former Kathleen Conner of Conyers.

Miss Bush, Mr. Shadix Marriage Announced

Mr. and Mrs. Joseph R. Bush of Decatur announce the marriage of their daughter, Miss Martha Jo Bush, to Claude C. Shadix of Atlanta.

Make It Easy for Little Campers To Write

By INDIA DEAN

If your small fry away at camp this summer don't write as regularly as you think they should, don't worry, Mom. Silence usually means the kids are having a wonderful time.

The children are in experienced, careful hands at any established camp. The camp directors and counselors are especially trained to keep your children busy and having a good time.

Absence of letters generally means the kids are having so much fun they just haven't got the time or inclination to send home a "wish you were here."

INSTRUCTIONS

The absence of letters could be caused by the lack of the necessary writing equipment or because the parents don't know any more about how to write to their children than the children know about writing to the folks at home.

Perhaps a few instructions before the potential camper leaves would help. Find out if the camp provides a place where writing essentials can be bought. If it has, tell him about it before he leaves.

Often they are so busy for the first few days getting acquainted with everyone they just don't have time to even think about buying paper and pencils to use to write home.

The Camp Fire Girls camp at Toccoa has a combination bank-store. Each camper deposits a small amount of money and then gets stamps, cards and stationery as she needs it until her deposit is used up.

FORMS TO MOTHERS

Miss Thelma Chambers, camp director, sends forms to mothers of the children at camp. This form gives some helpful hints about how to write the child at camp. It stresses the fact that "she'll need you most at mail time."

The child needs lots of mail while away from home, but make it bright and cheerful. Don't worry her with the family troubles while she is away.

1. When the youngster leaves for camp, supply him with several pads of writing paper and stamped envelopes addressed to you to cover at least once-a-week writing. Pads are more convenient than loose writing paper for the rough-and-ready camp life.

2. For short notes of the "arrived safely, having a wonderful time" variety give the child at least a dozen 2-cent postal cards previously addressed to you.

3. If you can't get exactly the information you want, send the child a question-and-answer sheet that can be filled in quickly during his few leisure moments.

4. Don't nag Junior by mail for long, detailed accounts of what he's doing. You'll get plenty of that when he gets home.

5. Equip your youngster with a ball-point pen or one of the new cartridge pens which come equipped with refills. These pens don't require ink bottles.

6. At the season's start, send a friendly note to your youngster's counselor or camp director, asking that the child be reminded occasionally to write home.

7. Send Junior news of friends at home so he'll write back for more of the same.

8. Most important, don't worry if the youngster doesn't write often enough to satisfy you.

MR. AND MRS. CHARLES BLACK JR., Mr. and Mrs. John W. Grant Jr. and Mr. and Mrs. Henry Morgan leave today for Highlands, N.C., to be the guests at the Highlands Country Club. There the group will be joined by those former Atlantans, Mr. and Mrs. Dana Belser of Washington, D.C.

Mr. and Mrs. Black will only remain over the weekend, but the rest of the party will be guests at the club for two weeks.

WHEN MRS. JULIAN TRIVERS and Mrs. Lawrence T. Earley entertained at luncheon yesterday at Mrs. Trivers' Piedmont road home, the event benefited the Catholic Colored Clinic run by the Medical Missionary Sisters.

Honor guests for the luncheon were Sister Jacobs, director of the clinic, and her assistant, Sister Therese. Donations made by the 35 invited guests were contributions to the clinic.

A FAREWELL GESTURE to Mrs. Louis W. Truman is the luncheon at which Mrs. Robert Vance will be hostess today at the Capital City Club's Mirador Room. Mrs. Vance has invited six friends to meet Mrs. Truman, who leaves with Gen. Truman on July 31 for the latter's new station in Italy.

MRS. J. A. BLANTON of St. Simons is here to welcome her new grandson, Alexander Blanton Rickenbaker, born July 14 to Mr. and Mrs. Hugh Rickenbaker Jr. at Emory Hospital. Mrs. Rickenbaker is the former Scarlett Blanton.

A RECENT BRIDE, Mrs. Robert Bennett Jr., will be honor guest when Miss Peggy Pfeiffer entertains at a soft drink party Saturday at her home on Vermont road.

Mrs. Bennett is the former Patsy Cartledge, daughter of those former Atlantans, Mr. and Mrs. George Cartledge of Roanoke, Va. She and Mr. Bennett have taken an apartment in the Stratford Arms on Peachtree for the summer. Their marriage took place in Roanoke in June.

MRS. JOHN C. SAMUELS left Wednesday for New Orleans to make the acquaintance of her new granddaughter, Susan Dianne Bowden, born to Lt. and Mrs. Robert C. Bowden on July 17. Mrs. Bowden is the former Shirley Samuels.

Difficulties Are Met, Conquered by Children

What does Willy do when he encounters something difficult? Does he give up, or does he keep plugging ahead?

Every mother or father the world over has watched a baby encountering difficulty.

A baby meets, and defeats, one difficulty after another. He never stops until he has vanquished it. His persistence is relentless and beautiful.

Remember those first sounds he made at 4 or 6 weeks that sounded like the soft cooing of a dove?

And how from that he began to practice other sounds—vowels, consonants?

Over and over and over again as he lay in his crib he would vocalize. You thought them merely joyous sounds evinced by the sight of fairies in the sunlight.

Nothing could stop him, and in time he won.

NOT PLAYING

Remember how, when 4 months old, he would grasp one hand with the other, or one thumb with the other hand, and seem to play for hours on end admiring his fingers?

He would clutch one hand with the other and tug away trying to get them apart. When finally he succeeded, he would gurgle in triumph.

Playing? Not at all. He was learning grasp, and release, and it was hard. But he never gave up.

He never gave up on these, or later on trying to pull himself up, to stand, to walk, to climb, to run, and in time, to ride a tricycle.

Yet, a year, two years, three years, later we try to protect our children from anything difficult.

In any field of learning, in the pursuit of any accomplishment, we say, "Oh, that's too hard for Willy!"

We seek the easy way, the short cut—and at the same time, although we would all die a thousand inner deaths if we knew it—we shortcut Willy's moral fibre and will to persist.

NOT EASY

All "improvements" today are toward making learning easy and painless. But learning is not always easy.

It is not always painless. It is not just a question of 10 easy lessons and over the top we go.

The accomplishment of anything worthwhile, whether it be learning to talk, to walk, to grasp, to release, to read, to spell, or to recite the multiplication tables, takes constant effort with many falls along the way and many attempts at righting oneself after the fall.

Babies sense this. Small children realize it. Then, in our vast parental indulgence and love, we undermine their struggle by attempting to eliminate the struggle.

In one "kind" stroke we take away both their sense of accomplishment, which comes only after hard work, and their joy in it.

As life goes on, always there will be difficulties, always there will be failures. How do we expect our children to meet these?

Lunch Hour Music, Prayer

The Central Baptist Church at Mitchell and Washington streets sent out invitations to downtown workers, particularly in the Capitol-Courthouse-City Hall area, to drop by during their lunch hour for the midday meditation service which runs from 11:45 a.m. to 1:15 p.m.

In the hectic work day a little time for quiet, for music and meditation and prayer might save most of us from ultimately seeking a psychiatrist. To sit a moment in the dim old church with the noonday sun filtered by the jewel-like colors of the famous stained glass windows could ease spirits and give weary office and store and factory workers strength and serenity beyond the day's task.

Several downtown churches have recognized this need for a little space of quiet and have opened their doors for prayer and meditation.

But somehow it is particularly inspiring that old Central Baptist has launched its midday meditation series. It's an old church on a busy corner and it hasn't been having easy times. Many stalwart members have died. Some have moved away. It has been without a pastor for a time.

And yet it must retain the same kind of spiritual vitality which made it one of the community's strongest forces in the dark days following the War Between the States, because look what it's doing.

The church bulletin last Sunday invited everybody who is lonely or frightened or care-worn to visit the church during the week and to hear the Rev. G. M. Moon talk briefly at 12:15 o'clock on such subjects as "How Never To Be Tired" and "The Secret of Getting Along With Yourself." (The subject for today is "To Save Is To Lose.")

I looked up the church in Franklin Garrett's history of Atlanta and found that the Second Baptist Church started at that corner in 1854. (Central has been there since 1870.) The building of the '50s cost $14,000 and survived Sherman's visit to offer space for a minister to collect the children and begin a school when citizens began to come back after the fire.

The school opened Feb. 27, 1865, while the town lay in rubble and ashes. Lee's surrender at Appomattox was only a couple of months away but Atlantans were busy building for a time beyond that and education of children seemed of great and immediate importance.

Perhaps taking time out to pray is also important. On its mid-day meditations program Central Baptist offers the words of Dr. Alexis Carrell on prayer. The first few lines run like this:

Radium-like and luminous

Linking with the Source
Of inexhaustible power
That spins the universe;
Producing strength in man,
Erasing remorse."

Athens Chapter To Be Organized

The new Athens, Georgia Chapter of the Women of the Moose will be instituted on Sunday at 3 p.m. at the Moose Home in Athens by members of the Atlanta Chapter No. 225.

Deputy Grand Regent Marie Cawthorn will be the instituting officer. Installing officers include Mrs. D. J. Winton, regent; Mrs. William Brady, chaplain and Mrs. Hubert Veal, guide.

Odd Handkerchief Fashion Trend

At first it seemed that famed designer Ben Zuckerman was launching an odd new fashion trend—wearing a pocket handkerchief with two different monograms embroidered on opposite sides. But then it turned out to be only another proof of "Uncle Ben's" soft heart.

The story:

Having ordered a dozen handkerchiefs monogrammed "B. Z." on the hem, Zuckerman was startled to have them arrive marked "Z. T."

He returned them to the shop. The young lady who had handled the order apologized and said that a new order would be put through quickly.

Weeks passed and finally Ben stopped in to inquire. The saleslady, slightly flustered, handed him the original handkerchiefs, now with two monograms, the "B. Z." neatly embroidered on the side opposite "Z. T."

"Sir, I could tell you are a kindhearted man," she said, "and since I made the original mistake in the order, I would have had to pay for the new handkerchiefs. So I thought maybe you could just take these and keep the wrong letters hidden."

She won.

Now-Hearty Sen. George Visits Hospitalized Johnson

Constitution Washington Bureau

Accompanied by Mrs. George, the Georgia solon visited briefly with the ailing Texas senator, and brought him up to date on the business of the Senate. They occupy adjoining seats in the first row on the Democratic side of the chamber.

Afterward, Senator George reported that the majority leader apparently is showing steady improvement.

Ga. Safe Driving Crusade To Be Biggest in History

By KATHERINE BARNWELL

The Georgia Safety Crusade, scheduled Aug. 28-Sept. 6, will be the "biggest safe driving campaign in the history of the state," sponsors of the crusade said Wednesday.

Purpose of the drive is to prevent deaths, injuries and destruction of property on the state's highways, particularly over the Labor Day weekend.

Speaking at a meeting called by Gov. Griffin, Ben Wiggins, the governor's executive secretary, said it's "up to the public" to help make the Georgia Safety Crusade a success.

Gov. Griffin is chairman of the campaign, and the co-chairman is J. H. Thompson, president of the Motion Picture Theater Owners and Operators of Georgia. A dozen other state-wide organizations are co-operating in the drive.

John Maloof, director of the Georgia Citizens Council, said ministers of the state will be asked to "plead for the conservation of human lives" in their sermons, pulpit announcements and bulletin announcements.

Motion picture theater owners and operators will show special safety reels during the campaign, he said. Television and radio stations will have special programs and announcements on safety. Newspapers will be asked to print articles on safety, he added.

Every industrial plant in the state will be asked to conduct a concentrated campaign on safe driving for the benefit of employes, Maloof said.

The Georgia Department of Public Safety will issue hourly reports on accidents and deaths in the state during the Labor Day weekend. The department also will arrange for increased enforcement of traffic laws.

Col. W. C. Dominy, head of the department, pointed out that 16 persons were killed in traffic accidents in Georgia last weekend. He promised the "full cooperation and resources of the Department of Public Safety in the campaign."

Representatives of organizations cooperating in the drive previewed an RKO safety film, "Devil Take Us," which will be shown in Georgia theaters during the crusade.

Safety Plaque For Hapeville

Hapeville was honored Tuesday night for completing its fifth consecutive year without a traffic fatality.

J. W. Maloof, director of the Georgia Citizens Council for Safety, presented Mayor Eugene E. Dixon a plaque recognizing the community's 1954 safety record.

Your Stars Today

They could have happened a little earlier because many things have been speeded up recently.

Personally, you should find that you can hardly keep up with the daily pace being set now and that surprises are becoming almost a common experience.

HAPPY BIRTHDAY, CANCER! There should be plenty of excitement around you at this time, and some changes could take place which would leave you entirely cut off from your past.

There is a new way of life opening up to you, and this is the time to have courage and assert your individuality, but also to be careful not to be too drastic.

Finances will be important in the next six months. Clear up any domestic situation which has been kept in the background.

For example: A lovely 3-piece starter place setting in the beautiful satin-finish Trellis pattern shown—a $4.20 value that's yours for only $1.75 plus the spout seal from a package of CAREY SALT. (And we'll give you a complete refund, plus return postage, if you're not perfectly satisfied!)

The quality is world-renowned . . . famous Wallace quality in satin-finish loveliness. Quality you can feel the moment you pick up a piece. Quality that never needs polishing, that lasts a lifetime, that can't rust or tarnish or stain. And you can have a complete set, at less than half price, through this unusual CAREY SALT plan.

The details of this remarkable offer can be found on the label of a CAREY SALT package, so pick up a box soon. CAREY, you know, is the perfect salt . . . pure crystals of flavor.

A favorite of America's heartland for generations, CAREY has always meant superior salt. Plain or iodized, its tiny crystals always sprinkle perfectly, rain or shine. So sprinkle a little CAREY'S on dinner tonight . . . you'll be sprinkling pure crystals of flavor.

COMPARE THE QUALITY

ARCHITECT'S DRAWING OF NEW ATLANTIC STEEL CO. OFFICE BUILDING
Structure Is Part of Company's $10,000,000 Modernization Program

Steel Co. To Start Office Unit

Construction will begin next week on a new Atlantic Steel Co. office building on company property at Sixteenth and Mecaslin streets, NW, officials announced Wednesday.

Strother-Barge Co. of Atlanta, with a base bid of $359,000, was apparent low bidder among 12 contractors who bid for the job.

The three-story air-conidtioned building, to have a floor area of approximately 35,000 square feet, is part of a 10-million-dollar modernization program recently announced by Atlantic Steel.

The program, already under way, includes a new merchant bar and rod mill and a second electric furnace. The new office building will provide space for the company's executive offices, sales engineering, fabricating engineering, purchasing, advertising, bookkeeping and electronics records sections.

Contemporary in design, the new building will feature Georgia marble and limestone. Steel and stainless steel will be used throughout the building where appropriate, company spokesmen reported, "to demonstrate the wide variety of steel products available to the construction industry."

Architects are Cooper, Barrett, Skinner, Woodbury & Cooper, Inc., of Atlanta. The building is expected to be ready for occupancy by June 1956.

Securities Firm Established Here By P. L. Miller

Phillip L. Miller

The firm will deal in municipal bonds, corporate securities and mutual investment trust shares.

Miller, a native Atlantan, attended Atlanta's Tech High and the University of Georgia. During World War II, he served three and one-half years as a pilot for the Air Force in the Training and Troop Carrier commands.

A former wholesale jobber, Miller at one time was a manufacturer of wood products for the textile industry in Gainesville. For the past five years he has been engaged in the investment business in Atlanta.

Business in Brief

Three Trust Company's of Georgia officials will take an active part in a "school" for bank auditors and comptrollers to be conducted at the University of Wisconsin in Madison under sponsorship of the National Assn. of Bank Auditors and Comptrollers.

Garnett Wood, Trust Company comptroller, will be a member of the faculty for the two-week course starting next week. Sam Mozeley, auditor, and John Crevis, assistant comptroller, will be students.

GRAHAM CO. APPOINTED

Appointment of Frank Graham Co., Atlanta Lincoln - Mercury dealership, as a dealer for the new Continental Mark II, prestige car to be introduced by Ford Motor Co. this fall, was announced Wednesday by Glenn H. Schricker, the Mercury Division's Atlanta district sales manager. Daniel A. Graham is Graham Co. president.

SHAINKER JOINS COURTS

Courts & Co., investment bankers and brokers with Atlanta headquarters, announced Wednesday that Charles Shainker has become associated with the company as a registered representative.

A native Atlantan, Shainker is a graduate of the University of Georgia. After World War II Navy service, Shainker spent 5½ years as a sales representative with Scripto, Inc.

DIVIDEND DECLARED

Trade Winds Co., processors of frozen seafoods with headquarters at Thunderbolt, Wednesday announced a dividend of 12½ cents per share on common stock, payable Aug. 1 to stockholders of record July 20.

The company also announced that earnings for the six months ended May 31 were equivalent to 37.7 cents per share of common stock presently outstanding.

Top Bidders On Housing Bonds Listed

NEW YORK, July 20 (AP)—Two investment syndicates placed top bids on $121,465,000 bonds put up by 19 local housing authorities—including Atlanta and Athens housing authorities—Wednesday.

One group, led by Phelps, Fenn & Co., Lehman Brothers and Blyth & Co., was apparently top bidder for $100,840,000 of the bonds. The $20,595,000 remainder apparently went to a syndicate led by Bankers Trust Co.

Bids ranged from 100.110 to 101.325 for the bonds which range in maturity from one to 35 and 40 years and carry interest coupons from 2½ to 2¾ per cent.

Bonds, which are exempt from federal taxation, and in most states from state income taxes as well, will be reoffered to investors at prices to yield from 1.20 to 2.70 per cent interest.

Following are the individual issues and amount: $16,075,000, Baltimore; $14,060,000. Philadelphia; $11,735,000, New York City; 9,415,000, Atlanta; $7,680,000, New Orleans; $6,320,000, Cincinnati; $4,880,000, Norfolk, Va.; $2,400,000, Saginaw, Mich.; $1,255,000, Athens, Ga.; $1,190,000, Madison County, Ill.; $6,645,000, Newark, N. J.; $5,910,000, Tampa, Fla.; $3,095,000, Hartford, Conn.; $1,875,000, Columbia, S.C.; $1,695,000, Trenton, N.J.; $7,075,000, Miami, Fla.; $7,020,000, Washington, D.C.; 1,065,000, Memphis, Tenn.

White is a member of the DeKalb and Atlanta chambers of commerce, the Atlanta Athletic Club and the Atlanta Sales Executive Club.

Cotton Mixed; Trading Slow

NEW YORK, July 20 (AP)—Cotton futures closed 45 cents a bale lower to 15 cents higher today. Trading was slow, with mild rallying tendencies discouraged by liquidation.

Selling continued to reflect apprehension among traders that the government's cotton program for next season will involve sales of surplus stocks at lower prices. Support in near months stemmed from trade covering.

Commission houses were early buyers of distant months. Switching from nearby October to later deliveries was fairly active.

Dry Goods

NEW YORK, July 20 (AP)—The cotton textile market was quiet Wednesday. Resale offerings of the popular 80-square print cloth increased at 18¾c a yard for average makes. The mill price is 19c yard on this quality. On the other hand, producers of flat ducks were reported to have raised prices, following a fair business recently. Some light selling of print cloths and broadcloths for the first quarter next year was also noted.

In wool goods, new business was light, but mills were working on heavy backlogs of orders for spring and summer 1956.

Building Men Clear Jeannette

NEW YORK, July 20 (AP)—Singer Jeannette MacDonald was cleared today of charges she failed to keep a Manhattan apartment house she owns in proper repair.

Building inspectors said it had been fixed up.

At the same time, Chief Magistrate John M. Murtagh vacated a warrant for Miss MacDonald's arrest issued last May 25 when she failed to appear in court.

Magic Show TV Debut Set July 31

By VAL ADAMS

NEW YORK, July 20 — Professional magicians will appear on a new television program that makes its debut Sunday, July 31, from 6 to 6:30 p.m. over the Columbia Broadcasting System network. Paul Tripp, who conducts a local show on The Carousel, will be the host.

On the premiere of It's Magic, Tripp will introduce Gali Gali, who performs with chicks; Domonique, a pickpocket expert, and the team of Dolinoff and Rayes.

The scheduling of the magic show brings a change of plans for Let's Take A Trip, the Sunday afternoon children's show initiated early this summer. The network had planned to move it into the Sunday evening hour from 7 to 7:30, but instead the show will leave the air temporarily after this Sunday.

Irving Gitlin, CBS director of public affairs, said that Let's Take A Trip would resume Sept. 25 at either 3:30 or 4:30 p.m. When asked why the show was going off, he replied that it was "just a matter of a program taking a summer hiatus." He did not explain the oddity of a summer show going off for the summer.

Aware, Inc., has issued a bulletin on eight persons in the entertainment field who, according to the organization, joined in a "campaign of agitation" against it. Aware, established to combat what it calls the Communist conspiracy in entertainment, recently was condemned by the membership of the American Federation of Television and Radio Artists for interfering in union affairs.

The voting on the resolution of condemnation was preceded by a campaign of agitation, Aware said, including a circular letter dated last March 10. The organization said the letter was signed by more than 150 persons, including the eight cited in its latest bulletin.

The bulletin stated that the reports about the eight persons came from testimony obtained by the House Committee on Un-American Activities. In issuing the bulletin, Aware declared that "it does not publish a periodical nor perform any services, gratis or otherwise, direct or indirect, for employers or unions."

Child-Care Program Set for Fall

By VAL ADAMS
New York Times News Service
Special to The Atlanta Constitution

NEW YORK, July 20—Dr. Benjamin Spock, one of the nation's best-known pediatricians, has signed a television contract with the National Broadcasting Co. (WSB-TV). He will conduct a weekly program on child care and development beginning Sunday, Oct. 9, from 3 to 3:30 p.m.

The network said Spock's program which will be presented by filmed recording, would deal with both the medical and psychological aspects in rearing children. For the last year the pediatrician has conducted a local program over WQED in Pittsburgh, an educational station, but the new series will be his first on a national network.

Negotiations between Spock and NBC reportedly had been in progress for an extended period before an agreement was reached. The contract finally agreed upon gives the pediatrician considerable voice in approving or rejecting prospective sponsors of the program.

Dr. Spock recently resigned from the University of Pittsburgh Medical School, where he had been professor of child development for four years. His name is familiar to millions of mothers because of his book, "Baby and Child Care."

Commissioner J. R. Mandelbaum of the Federal Mediation and Conciliation Service said today he was still trying to end a contract dispute between scenic and costume designers and three television networks. He has had one meeting this week with leaders of the United States Scenic Artist Union Local No. 289, AFL.

So far no joint meeting has been scheduled between the union and the networks—the American Broadcasting Co., the Columbia Broadcasting System and NBC. The union, which has been without a contract since April 1, recently rejected a "final" wage increase offer by the networks and authorized its officials to call a strike.

Charles L. Glett has resigned as vice president in charge of operations for CBS-Television in Hollywood. Before joining CBS he was head of television for the Don Lee Network on the West Coast.

The CBS chain announced yesterday Howard S. Meighan had been named vice president in charge of its Western Television Division. He will assume his new post immediately.

The Hambeltonian, the annual harness racing classic at Goshen, N.Y., will be broadcast over the CBS-Radio network (WAGA) on Aug. 3 from 5:15 to 5:30 p.m.

New Star Debuts In WLW-A Play

Special to The Constitution

NEW YORK, July 20—A pretty young actress who started her theatrical career playing boyish roles in Midwestern tent shows stars for the first time in "Mr. Kewpie Doll" to be presented at 8 p.m. Thursday night on Star Tonight on ABC-TV (WLW-A in Atlanta). She is Nancy Delvin who toured the Midwest with her family, appearing in tent shows and other repertory companies.

The play provides a tour de force for the piquant red-headed actress in the role of Kitty Bird, a young bride more interested in movie heroes than her real-life husband.

Child Betrayal Of Family Set On Lux Theater

Special to The Constitution

NEW YORK, July 20—The Lux Video Theater will feature an unusual drama about six people who are pitted against a child who endangers their lives Thursday at 9 p.m. on NBC-TV (WSB-TV in Atlanta).

The story is "Desperate Glory." The setting is an Iron Curtain country where a schoolgirl decides to imitate a friend and betray her grandfather and friends for listening to Radio Free Europe broadcasts. He has already received a handsome reward for turning in her parents for a similar "crime."

How to forestall her plans is the problem. The men cannot bring themselves to kill the child, yet their own lives are in jeopardy as long as she lives. They find another alternative and use it.

Mr. Dave Richardson
Magazine Advertising Department
Atlanta Newspapers, Inc.
Atlanta, Georgia
Dear Dave:
I thought you might be interested in our report of the first full page ad that we ran in your magazine May 1, 1955.
It is really a tremendous success story for your Sunday Magazine. As you know, we devoted our entire copy to a "count plus various other prizes. The objects of course, was to secure leads for our salesmen. Believe me—it did.
That page ad pulled over 13,000 entries, which means 13,000 new leads for our sales departments. To say we were overwhelmed is just putting it mildly. Evidently the pulling power of your magazine all over the state of Georgia is tremendous and beyond anything we expected. The results from Sunday Magazine is the best section in your Sunday paper and that is the place for all our store promotions.
Sincerely yours,
MONARCH SEWING CENTERS, Inc.

Funeral of R. B. Pegram Of Southern To Be Today

Funeral services for Robert Baker Pegram, 80, retired vice president of the Southern Railway System, who died Wednesday morning at his residence in the Biltmore Apartments, will be held at 4 p.m. Thursday at Spring Hill.

The Rev. Robert Riegel will officiate, with burial in Westview Cemetery. Members of the Ten Club will serve as pallbearers.

Before his retirement in 1945, Mr. Pegram had served with the Southern Railway for 54 years. He began his railroad career as a utility clerk for the Memphis and Charleston Railroad, which later became a part of the Southern system.

He held the vice president's position of the Southern Railway System for a quarter of a century.

Mr. Pegram was born in Marion, Ala., and lived most of his younger years in Memphis, Tenn. Before coming to Atlanta from Washington in 1920, he had lived in several cities including St. Louis, Mo.; Charleston, S.C., and Birmingham, Ala.

Mr. Pegram descended from a long line of Virginians. He was the son of the late Robert Baker Pegram II, a railroad man himself, and the late Ella Wyatt Pegram.

He was married to the former Miss Susan Wright of Memphis.

For many years he was director of the Atlanta Chapter of the American Red Cross. He was a member of St. Luke's Episcopal Church, the Capital City Club and the Ten Club.

Before his retirement, he had served as director of various affiliates of the Southern Railway System, and as director of the First National Bank. He was president of the Atlanta Terminal Co. and the Tallulah Falls Railway for some years.

Survivors include his wife; a son, R. B. Pegram Jr. of Atlanta; one daughter, Mrs. De Sales Harrison of Chattanooga, Tenn.; six grandchildren and four great-grandchildren.

Quemoy Isles Pounded by Red Barrage

New York Times News Service
Special to The Atlanta Constitution

TAIPEI, Thursday, July 21 — Communist batteries submitted the islands of the Quemoy group yesterday to the heaviest bombardment since the initial shelling in September 1954.

A communique of the Ministry of National Defense, issued last night, said that 215 shells fell on the Quemoy islands during a continuous bombardment between 8 p.m. and 10:40 p.m. Earlier in the day 27 rounds hit the tiny islands of Tatan and Erhtan.

The action of the Communist artillery from Amoy was said by the ministry to have been concentrated on the main island of Quemoy, Little Quemoy and the islands of Hutzeyu and Shuyu.

The communique said no casualties had been reported and fire by Nationalist artillery finally silenced the Communist batteries.

This was the first major Communist military action against the Chinese Nationalists since the opening of the summit conference in Geneva. It was the heaviest bombardment of Quemoy since May 5, when the Communists tossed 150 shells on Little Quemoy.

Senate Endorses Faster Forms for Overseas Voters

WASHINGTON, July 20 (AP) — Thousands of U. S. voters now serving overseas could vote in next year's election by absentee ballot under a plan approved by the Senate today and sent back to the House.

The measure asked—but does not compel—states to simplify existing provisions for absentee voting for federal, state and local elections.

A post-card form to obtain a ballot and government payment of airmail costs for its printing, distribution and return are among features of the novel legislation.

In addition to members of the armed forces serving overseas and their dependents, the legislation lists the merchant marine, civilian government employes and religious and welfare groups serving with the armed forces.

8 Arrested in Theft Of 10-Mile Power Line

MEXICO CITY, July 20 (AP)—Eight men were arrested today on a charge of stealing 10 miles of power cable valued at $84,000.

FREE MIAMI VACATION

GIVEN WITH EVERY '55 MODEL AUTOMOBILE

The most astounding offer ever made in Atlanta! Think of it! A fabulous Miami Vacation, for one, included AT NO EXTRA COST with every car sold from 8 a. m. Thursday, July 21, until midnight Saturday, July 23.

You'll fly to Miami and back on an Eastern Airlines Super Constellation Aircoach. You'll enjoy seven days and six nights in Miami and stay at one of Miami's most luxurious hotels—located right on the beach! A limousine will take you from the airport to the hotel and return you to the airport.

Your "Happy Holiday" Vacation may be taken any time between July 21 and December 19, 1955. Only one trip will be given with each 1955 automobile sold, but other members of the family may take the vacation at a very low cost.

LIVE . . . in the luxurious Lombardy Hotel on the ocean front at 63rd St. Private pool and Cabana Club on the beach, dining room, and Cocktail Lounge. Also includes motor launch cruise through inland waterways, motor coach sightseeing tour of Miami, Miami Beach, Hialeah and the Indian Village.

EASTERN AIRLINES
Stewardess and Eastern Airlines representative will be on our lot to explain all the details of this fabulous offer.

TALK . . . to the Eastern Air Lines representative who will be on our lot during this sale to tell you about the Happy Holiday Luxury Vacation.

TRADE IN . . . your present car, at top dollar allowance, or purchase your '55 model by cash sale. Also convenient financing available with one-fourth down and 30 months to pay.

The bidding:

West	North	East	South
1 heart	Double	Pass	3 diamonds
3 hearts	Pass	Pass	3 spades
Pass	4 spades	Pass	Pass
Pass

Opening lead: King of hearts.

The auction was sound enough. North's take-out double involved a slight risk. If South happened to respond with two diamonds, North would hardly be in a sound position to bid either three clubs or two spades. And one of the surest ways to alienate partner's affections is to force him into a contract and then spread only two trumps with which to comfort him. However, the double was superior to an overcall of two clubs, South's jump bid was proper. With this favorable distribution, game probabilities were surely to be visualized.

South took the opening lead of the king of hearts and immediately attacked the trump suit, finessing the jack in dummy. The fall of East's nine alerted the declarer: If the nine were singleton, the road was going to be a hard one to travel. If it were not singleton, then the chances were it was accompanied by the 10. And declarer chose to play on that theory.

The jack of diamonds was played and ran to West's queen. When a heart came back, dummy followed, but declarer made a most unusual play. He refused to ruff, discarding instead a club. We observe here the rare spectacle of discarding a winner on a loser. This gambit was executed for the purpose of retaining an entry to the South hand for later on in order to permit the cashing of the diamond suit.

West, having had such eminent success with his heart suit, decided to try it again. This lead was ruffed in dummy, as South discarded his second club. Another diamond was led, clearing the suit. Now West shifted to a club, and the trick was permitted to run to the closed hand, where it was ruffed.

South then led the queen of spades. Had West covered, declarer would have returned to his hand with the eight, extracting the last trump and spreading all the good diamonds. But West refused to cover. Whereupon South proceeded to play high diamonds until West chose to ruff, at which point dummy overruffed with the ace, and the rest of the tricks went to declarer.

HOW TO KEEP WELL

By DR. THEODORE VAN DELLEN

Boils on the Face Are Serious Threat

Many boils are more annoying than serious. Old-time physicians must have thought along this line because the technical name, furuncle, is derived from a Latin word meaning petty thief.

Boils on the face above the level of the mouth, however, are more than a nuisance. They are regarded as potentially serious.

These lesions never should be squeezed or manipulated because infections in this area are notorious for spreading into the brain. Meningitis or abcesses may result.

What are boils? They are staphylococcal infections of the entire hair follicle and adjacent tissue. The first sign is a tender, reddish nodule that becomes increasingly tense and swollen as inflammation grows.

The causative organisms multiply and the white blood corpuscles come to the defense by forming pus to gobble up the invaders. The more pus, the greater the tension and the greater the tension, the more intense is pain.

Nature builds a protective membrane around the base of the lesion, to confine the infection to a single area. Squeezing a boil is likely to break the barrier and spread the infection into surrounding tissues.

In the past, heat was applied and the boil was lanced after it came to a head. Heat still is used, but in addition, an antibiotic is given early to induce the furuncle to regress.

Penicillin, neomycin, or aureomycin, via capsule, tablet, or injection, is recommended for large boils but smaller ones often respond to one of the numerous antibiotic ointments now available.

The majority are a combination of several effective antibacterial agents such as terramycin and polymyxin B; or neomycin, bacitracin, and polymyxin B. Combinations are preferred because they have a low sensitizing index and skin reactions are uncommon.

But the use of medications is only part of the treatment. The skin must be kept scrupulously clean with soap and water to discourage new boils from forming.

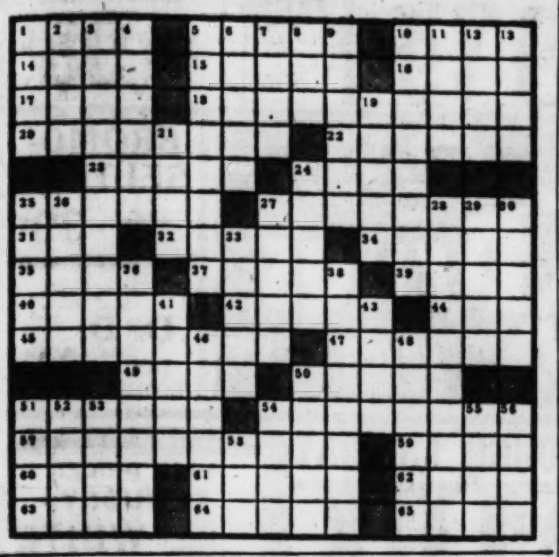
Solution to Yesterday's Puzzle



WORRY CLINIC

By DR. GEORGE W. CRANE

Husbands Stay Home When They're Happy

Jim J., 35, is a construction engineer.

He boarded the airplane at Louisville and sat down beside me while I was flying back from Atlanta recently.

"Aren't you Dr. Crane?" he asked.

"Yes, but how did you know?" I replied in surprise.

"Thank you, I'm glad to know that," I answered. "But just how did my newspaper column make your home happier?"

"Well, I have been married for 12 years," Jim replied. "But my wife and I never saw eye to eye on marital relations.

"But her mother poisoned her mind about men. So we led a typical 'cat and dog' existence.

ANOTHER QUARREL

"Then you wrote a frank column one day about marriage. That morning we had another quarrel, so I tore the column right out of the Star and laid it beside her plate at the breakfast table.

"There, read that and get wise to the facts," I said angrily, and then put on my hat and headed for the office without even saying goodbye.

"Well, Dr. Crane, I guess she read it more than once, too, for from then onward, our home-life changed.

"She later told me she thought I was just making up all the advice I had tried to give her before that moment, but when she saw your statement about the basic differences in erotic appetite between men and women, she decided maybe her mother had been wrong.

"Your column that morning had stated that Jacob had four wives and that modern husbands are likewise geared to have a harem.

"So you advised wives, if they wanted to hold their husbands' undying devotion through the Golden Wedding, to feign more ardor and see that their husbands were fed an ample supply of erotic calories as well as the gastric variety.

"Now I've quit drinking and stay home for I have nothing to flee from. My wife is charming, sweet and satisfactory, so I don't need a whisky flash to drown my miseries."

There is an axiom in psychology to the effect that neither man nor animal will voluntarily flee from pleasure.

So if your home life is happy, you don't need dread the competition of neighboring taverns, dance halls, poolrooms or immoral houses.

Men stay home when they are happier there than elsewhere.

Sometimes a divorced mother or spinster aunt has so vividly impressed their girlish minds, that the wives fail to use the strategy that makes marriage permanently happy.

So send for my booklet, "Sex Problems in Marriage." Address your request to me in care of The Constitution, enclosing a stamped return evenlope, plus a dime.

Bust of Aga Khan To Go on Display

2 Acquitted Of Peonage Charges Here

A jury in U.S. District Court here deliberated 35 minutes before returning a not guilty verdict for Carter Robertson, owner of a large farm near Mansfield, and Robert A. Kitchens, a Dekalb County police officer formerly on the Newton County force.

Defense attorneys argued the NAACP had pressured the Justice Department into bringing the case. Hart is a Negro. District Attorney James Dorsey denied that organization had influenced his office.

If all iron ore, coal and limestone consumed by the U.S. steel industry in one year were placed in railroad cars and attached to one train, the train would be 38,228 miles long.

Ike Okays Start on Hartwell Dam

WASHINGTON, July 20 (AP) — Immediate start of construction of Hartwell Dam on the Savannah River has been authorized by the White House, Sen. George (D-Ga) said today.

George said he was notified of the decision by Maj. Gen. Wilton B. Persons, presidential assistant. Persons said the administration had checked engineering and other plans and concluded construction could begin.

The project is one of 107 which President Eisenhower said would be held up because sufficient planning studies had not been completed. The projects were not in the budget but Congress appropriated funds for them in the public works bill which the President signed last Friday.

Three million dollars was appropriated for the Hartwell project. Congress also set aside $1,800,000 for start of construction on the Fort Gaines Lock and Dam in Georgia. This project is one of those being studied further by the White House staff. One of George's aides said the Fort Gaines project will probably be cleared for construction within a few days.

Final Ruling Awaited on Traffic Court

Judge Ralph H. Pharr said Wednesday that by overruling the city's general demurrers in the case on June 8, he had in effect, ruled some portions of the act unconstitutional.

Final judgment on the case, however, is pending and will be rendered "sometime later," the judge said.

Landers brought the test action on the ground that he would be liable for any funds he disbursed to the court if the law creating it is unconstitutional.
